REPUBLICAN SURGE EXPECTED IN U.S. MID-TERM ELCTIONS

All 435 seats in the US House of Representatives are up for grabs, as are 35 of 100 Senate seats and 36 governorships

DEMOCRATS MAY LOSE HOUSE CONTROL

Republicans would need to pick up five seats to take a majority in the House and just one to control the Senate. Most nonpartisan election forecasters and opinion polls have suggested that Republicans have a very strong chance of winning a House majority while the fight for control of the Senate will be a close one. Most results will be in by Wednesday

IMPLICATIONS FOR PRESIDENT JOE BIDEN

- A surprise Democratic victory would give US President Joe Biden a mandate to pursue a sweeping legislative agenda on issues such as abortion rights, police reform and voting rights. But, if Democrats lose control of either House, then Biden will find it tough to pass any legislation in the second half of his term | P12

Ahead of Yellen trip, India firm on Russian oil import

Jaishankar holds talks with Lavrov, says govt obligation is to ensure consumers get best access to fuel on most advantageous terms

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Tuesday indicated India will continue importing crude oil from Russia despite Western unease, after holding wide-ranging talks with his Russian counterpart Sergey Lavrov in Moscow.

"As the world's third-largest consumer of oil and gas, a consumer where the levels of income are not very high, it is our fundamental obligation to ensure that the Indian consumer has the best possible access on the most advantageous terms to international markets," Jaishankar said at a joint media conference with Lavrov.

The talks came days before US Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen arrives in Delhi, with indications that capping Russian oil prices could be on the talks agenda. Russia last month became India's biggest oil supplier — jacking up its share from less than 2% of India's oil basket before the Ukraine war to nearly 22% now.

This was the fifth meeting for the two foreign ministers this year though it was Jaishankar's first visit to Moscow since the Ukraine war. He was accompanied by senior officials from the ministries of agriculture, petroleum and natural gas, ports, shipping and waterways, finance, chemicals and fertilisers as well as commerce and industry, indicating the breadth of the bilateral engagement.

Describing the bilateral ties as time-tested, Jaishankar said, "India and Russia engage each other in an increasingly multipolar and re-balanced world. We do so as two polities who have had an exceptionally steady and time-tested relationship." After the meeting, both sides resolved to expand their trade ties, with India stressing the need to improve the bilateral trade balance by increasing exports to Russia.

"We reviewed progress of our space and nuclear programs. It is also essential that our time-tested defence relationship continues to perform smoothly," he added.

On Ukraine, Jaishankar reiterated Prime Minister Narendra Modi's 'no era for war' pitch and articulated India's continued stand of dialogue and peaceful resolution of the conflict. "The global economy is simply too inter-dependent for a significant conflict anywhere, not to have major consequences elsewhere. India, therefore, strongly advocates a return to dialogue and diplomacy. We are clearly on the side of peace, respect for international law and support for the UN Charter."

Vaastu-compliant civil engg courses from next yr?

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THERE is a move afoot to bring Vaastu Shastra in architecture and engineering courses. Riding on the increasing demand for Vaastu-compliant structures for residential as well as industrial and commercial buildings, Central agencies linked to the construction sector are already offering workshops to train civil engineers and architects on Vaastu Shastra.

The Central Public Works Department (CPWD) Academy is planning a training course on Vaastu Shastra, its philosophy, importance and use in building design for architects, engineers, horticulturists and construction workers on November 17 and 18. A senior CPWD Academy official told The New Indian Express, "Vaastu is being looked at as it is considered good to ensure well-being. The books which engineers have been studying so far are by authors from Western countries, who do not believe in this and debate this science. It was not there in the syllabus so far, but now looking at the rising demand and the courses being offered, its introduction in courses for students in the next academic year is being discussed. The new syllabus starts from April and there is sufficient time to plan the details."

Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan said Vaastu Shastra as a course can be offered to students as a choice subject. There is nothing compelling, and it is no harm. P7

DDPI: Get schoolkids to Modi event, or else...

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE Deputy Director Public Instruction (DDPI), Bangalore Rural District, issued a circular dated November 8, 2022, to PU college principals in the district to mobilise students for Prime Minister Narendra Modi's programme scheduled to be held in Bengaluru on November 11.

The circular stated, "This is as per directions of the preparatory meeting held on November 2. Students will have to be transported in pre-arranged buses and taken to the venue and back. Action will be taken if there is any failure to comply with the order."

However, facing a backlash from various quarters, the Education Department got into a damage-control mode and withdrew the controversial order.

When contacted, Primary Education Minister B C Nagesh told TNIE, "The DDPI has withdrawn the circular". He added that he has instructed the Principal Secretary to take action against the "errant" officer.

Opposition leader Siddaramaiah said, "The education department under this BJP government has been goofing up on one issue or the other. People are not attending BJP's meetings and functions and hence it is now trying to exploit school and college students. This move of the government is condemnable." P4

DISABLED DENIED ENTRY AT RAIL STATION IN BENGALURU

NAMRATA SINDWANI @ Bengaluru

PERSONS with disability, who were out in the city for their weekly social interaction activity, were denied entry at the K Gollahalli Railway Station, as some officials told them that they needed prior permission to enter the pubic space.

Dr Gitanjali G Govindrajan, founder and executive director, Snehadhara Foundation, said ten persons (aged 14-42 years) with various disabilities from the foundation were out on Monday for their weekly city expedition. But they were stopped from entering the station, though they had purchased the platform tickets for all of them. Officials at the station told them that their entry would destroy the sanctity of the place, Dr Gitanjali said.

Even as foundation representatives argued with the officials, they also had to take care of helpless disabled members. Only two of them had the ability to verbally express themselves. They were eventually allowed to go inside the station after much argument, she said.

The Foundation later registered a complaint with the commissioner for the disabled, and there was no response till Tuesday evening.

As part of the foundation's curriculum, the differently abled are taken out every week to places like theatres, temples, parks etc to provide them an opportunity to interact with the outside world.

Travelling through public transport or visiting a public space is the basic human right of any person. The issue for the disabled people is much larger — Dr Gitanjali G Govindrajan, founder, Snehadhara Foundation

"Travelling through public transport or visiting a public space is the basic human right of any person. The issue for the disabled people is much larger. Facilities for people with disabilities, especially for those who are visually impaired, continue to be restrictive in the city. Our society tends to be more self-absorbed and lacks empathy which needs to change," she said.

Work under way to complete the Rs 19-crore HAL underpass in Bengaluru.

Much-delayed HAL underpass to open by Dec

The project, which started two years ago, had faced a few hiccups at inception

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

THE much-awaited underpass to ease traffic on HAL, Marathahalli and Suranjan Das Road at HAL Junction will be completed by December. According to BBMP officials, the project was delayed by one-and-a-half months after silt and clay got deposited at the underpass following heavy rain. Now the process of erecting boxes and stitching is going on one side, and it is likely to be completed in the next 10 days.

The 2.90-metre-length underpass will ease traffic. People going from Old Airport towards Marathahalli or vice versa will not have to wait at any signal. Vehicles coming from Marathalli side and entering Suranjan Das Road will get a free left turn.

"We wanted to finish the project and throw it open to the public by Deepavali. But an earthmover and a crane got stuck in the clay and silt, slowing down the works. Also, there was water accumulation at the bottom and the contractor had to wait till it percolated down to resume the work," said an official, who was at the site monitoring the works.

Confirming the deadline for completing the Rs 19 crore project, BBMP Chief Engineer Lokesh M said, "After initial hiccups, the project started two years ago and the Palike managed to get 3,100 sq mt of additional space through transferable development rights (TDR) from HAL. Now in 40 to 50 days, the underpass work will be over completely."

Asked whether the new stretch could develop a sinkhole after such an occurrence near Kundalahalli, BBMP officials said the sinkhole was on the service road and not at the underpass.

The sinkhole formed because of a water leakage in a Bengaluru Water Supply and Sewerage Board pipeline and the issue was fixed the same day. It will not happen at the HAL underpass as issues have been addressed, they added.

Hessarghatta should be a reserve, says Wildlife Board

ENS @ Bengaluru

MEMBERS of the Karnataka State Wildlife Board have penned a letter to CM Basavaraj Bommai, demanding that the Hessarghatta grassland be declared a conservation reserve.

A signed petition was sent to the CM on November 7, explaining the importance of a grassland to Bengaluru. In the six-page letter, the members have explained that it will not exclude people from the landscape. In the letter, they reiterated that the entire 5,100 acres of land will belong to the state government. It houses government institutions on 3,500 acres, while the rest is a lake bed. The members asserted that what is being proposed to be a conservation reserve, specifies that the use of land by local communities and villagers will continue.

The members explained to the CM, who is also the chairman of the state board for wildlife, that no new species will be introduced and the idea of declaring the region as a reserve is to protect existing ones. They also stated that there is no mandate to declare a buffer or eco-sensitive zone around the area, unlike a national park. Hence, the existing and new structures planned will not have any problem. The members have issued the letter just a few days after the CM called for a public discussion, since a proposal from the Animal Husbandry and Forest departments, alone was not sufficient.

Devanahalli MLA plants saplings in potholes in protest

ENS @ Bengaluru

DEVANAHALLI MLA Nisarga Narayanaswamy, along with JDS workers, on Tuesday staged a protest by planting saplings in potholes on roads around Devanahalli Town. Narayanaswamy alleged that the government is least bothered about sanctioning grants to fill potholes on the road which connects to Kolar Road, even after making repeated complaints.

The protesters blocked the road for a while, and also brought paddy saplings to plant in potholes. They shouted slogans against the district administration for not taking any action, even after several accidents occurred there in the last few months.

Residents alleged that several bikers and students were injured, and Devanahalli traffic police had also instructed contractors to repair the road. But even after a couple of months, there was no action.

Speaking to TNIE, an officer from Devanahalli traffic police said, "We had asked a few private companies to provide concrete. We managed to fill a few potholes and urged the authorities to fill them up immediately." The MLA also complained that he demanded grants from the government, but did not get them. Hence, he decided to protest in this way.

Students, factory workers, and some airport staffers too joined the protest and blamed the government for not maintaining the roads close to the Kempegowda International Airport. Ironically, this novel protest affected traffic on the road.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

09TH November: There are no boundaries separating us from the stars. That is why the light they send out can reach us directly. What's more, as I wrote some time ago, there are tiny particles in all our bodies which are linked to particles in stars millions – or billions - of light years away. That might sound strange, but it's what science tells us.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Some things may take longer than expected, so allow yourself plenty of time for every opportunity and activity. One possibly complicating factor is your tendency to be too emotional by half. But, then, you do still need to express your deepest desires.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You may be under quite a lot of pressure, but today's stars enable you to focus on yourself in an almost meditative fashion. Please spare a little time for a spot of rejuvenating day-dreaming. You may well find that what pops out of your unconscious shows you the solution to a knotty problem.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Mars is playing games with you and sending your energy level up and down like a yo-yo. In spite of all this, you have all the strength, stamina and support you need to get through whatever is making you so uncomfortable. Remember the old saying: it's good to talk!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
If you have not already been filled with hope for the future, the stars are not fulfilling their allotted task. One of the best ways to use your current celestial energy is to give yourself over to hedonism and pleasure. But it's not the only way: you can also start developing an artistic skill.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Others may well try to override your views or undermine your concerns, playing rather devious games. I can see no particular prospect that anyone will genuinely weaken your interests, but you should also avoid fuelling other people's jealousy or ambitions.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You probably feel a little trapped, but the way to get out of a rut at the moment is quite simple. First of all, you should analyse the situation, listing all the pros and cons. Then implement your plans with complete commonsense. There's no room for sentiment.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Your emotional goal posts are shifting, and as the day goes by it will become progressively easier to see your partnerships in perspective. You may have little choice but to follow family members' wishes as far as home arrangements are concerned, but it's no real hardship.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Concentrate on your creative talents and fit in more interest and variety. I really think that you should take the lead amongst your friends and impose your personality on the world around you. If you're facing an emotional obstacle then slow down and subject it to clear, close, Scorpionic analysis.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
If it's difficult to take decisions, then it's because the information is changing too fast. You are looking distinctly doubtful and self-questioning, but you may as well stop worrying over what other people think about you. After all, they are probably completely and utterly wrong!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Why not give yourself a day's grace? Get up to date with domestic chores and keep the wheels well-oiled at home, but wait until the next dramatic Solar and Lunar alignments in a few weeks' time, if you've got any major trump cards up your sleeve.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You are now making valuable progress in both personal and professional matters. Next week you'll probably go through a U-turn, so keep your diary relatively flexible. It really will be a case of last-minute changes, and that's why you've got to keep up with the news.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Entrepreneurs and potential millionaires can take heart, for the Moon is acting on your behalf today. If you can make a leap into the dark why not do so? After all, as the saying goes, who dares, wins. But, as with any risk, it's up to you to assess the odds first! Nobody else can do that for you.

Co-op bank cheats 2,400 depositors of ₹93 cr, 5 held

Police say case to be handed over to CID

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

IN yet another case of misappropriation of funds by a co-operative institution, around 2,400 depositors have been allegedly cheated to the tune of Rs 93 crore. Five persons have been arrested in connection with the scam allegedly committed by Kuruhinasetty Souharda Credit Co-operative Ltd in Chamrajpet.

The police said several complaints were lodged by the depositors who accused the board members and staff of the co-operative institute of not returning their deposits. More than 20 members were named as accused in these cases and a detailed probe was carried out. It came to light that the firm had released a huge amount of loans to individuals and financial institutions without following due procedures since 2011.

"Loans were sanctioned without proper verification of documents. Huge amount of mortgage loans were sanctioned against undervalued properties, while several mortgage loans were also sanctioned on the same properties. Besides, it was also found that several mortgaged properties were fraudulently sold to the family members of the board members. Based on the findings of the investigation, five persons have been arrested while efforts are on to nab the other absconding accused," the police said. The arrested are B L Srinivas (64), a resident of Brigade Gateway Apartment who was the president of the institute for 12 years, Eshwarappa B (71), a resident of Shantinagar, who was the vice-president for 10 years, Dayananda Hegde (50), a resident of Mariyannanapalya and Chandrashekhar P (55) of V Nagenahalli in R T Nagar, who had defaulted on crores of rupees borrowed from the institution in the form of loans, and B T Mohan (75), a resident of BTM Layout and the chairman of Surabhi Chits Ltd.

Mohan, Chairman of Surabhi Chits, was a special invitee of the board and crores of rupees were given as loans to defaulters through him, the police added.

The probe has so far established that the financial institution has around 2,400 depositors and has given Rs 93 crore as loans including Rs 15 crore to the scam-hit Sri Guru Raghavendra Sahakara Bank Niyamitha. "As the case involves a multi-crore scam, it will be handed over to the Criminal Investigation Department (CID) soon," a senior police officer said.

The police have registered cases under the provisions of the Banning of Unregulated Deposit Schemes Act, the Karnataka Protection of Interest of Depositors in Financial Establishments Act and various sections of the IPC against the accused and are further investigating.

Mohammed Arafat, a rowdy-sheeter of Hennur station, and Mohammed Sadat Maaz were arrested following a credible tip-off that they had gone to RT Nagar in search of a potential customer to sell a pistol, police said. A team rushed to the spot, arrested both and seized a country-made pistol and four live bullets. "When questioned, the accused revealed that they had purchased the pistol in Mumbai and had come to Bengaluru to sell it at a higher price to anti-social elements. Woman killed by son-in-law over family row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

Pub in dock after staffers attack 2 men

PRAVEEN KUMAR @Bengaluru

AN upscale bar and restaurant at Kundalahalli Junction is in trouble for assaulting a 29-year-old private firm employee and his friend, who are from Punjab. The victims, Anurag Kumar and Tushar Patel, were returning home after attending a party elsewhere and saw the bar open past 2 am.

In their complaint to the police, they said they purchased liquor by paying extra and were drinking outside Otto's Bar and Restaurant. Bar staffers asked them to leave and when they sought some time, they were attacked. The victims alerted the Whitefield police, who rushed to the spot and found the bar open beyond the permissible time limit and in violation of excise rules. The DJ was still playing music and customers were still dancing when the police entered the premises. The music was being played without obtaining the mandatory no-objection certificate from the police. The police took some pub staffers and booked them under different sections of IPC and excise rules.

Anurag and Tushar, who stay in an apartment near Gunjur, were allegedly attacked by the bar staff between 1.45 am and 2.15 am on Saturday. "The two had visited another pub in Marathahalli. After it closed at 1 am, the two were returning to their apartment when they saw Otto's still open. After they were attacked, they informed the police and beat policemen who saw the bar was open, violating the timings. They were also selling liquor at double the actual price. Action was immediately initiated against bar owner Srinivas Reddy, manager Dhanya Boruwa, cashier Lokesh and eight others," said the police. Two separate complaints have been registered against the bar – one by the two friends and the other by night beat policemen.

A case under the Karnataka Excise Act, 1965 and a few sections of IPC have been filed.

Headless state agricultural panel likely to increase farmers' woes

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

WHILE on the one hand, the Union government speaks about doubling farmers' income, and on the other, the state government has not bothered to appoint a chairman for the Karnataka Agricultural Price Commission (KAPC) for the last few months. The chairman, who acts as a facilitator between the government and the farmers, plays an important role in fixing Minimum Support Price (MSP) for crops.

The Karnataka Agricultural Price Commission, which was constituted in 2014, gives recommendations to the state government from time to time on crop production, cultivation costs, transportation and crop insurance.

In fact, last year, post-Covid, the commission, headed by Hanumanagouda Belagurki, had asked the state government to recommend to the Centre to increase crop loss compensation under the National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF).

In July this year, the state government scrapped posts of chairpersons of various commissions, including the Karnataka Agricultural Price Commission. Since then, the Commission is not active. Sources in the Agriculture Department said there are 27 major crops grown in Karnataka for which a report on the cost of cultivation has to be prepared and sent to the Union government for fixing the MSP. "The Union government goes ahead and fixes the MSP even if the report is not submitted. Our farmers will be deprived as their voice will not be heard. We are already three months late in sending the report," sources from the department said.

Explaining it further, sources said a survey on cost of cultivation reveals how much a farmer has spent on seeds, manure and fertilisers, and based on that, the price is recommended. "If our report does not reach the Centre, they might fix the previous year's price which will cause losses to the farmers," sources said.

According to a report submitted to the government a few months ago, the existing Rs 6,800, Rs 13,500 and Rs 18,000 per hectare for rain-fed, irrigated and horticulture crops respectively, is not adequate. It should be Rs 50,000 per hectare for agri crops and Rs 1 lakh per hectare for multi-year crops.

When contacted, Agriculture Minister B C Patil said his department has sent a letter to the chief minister appealing him to appoint Agriculture Department secretary as the chairperson for the time being, till the government appoints the next chairperson.

WON'T APOLOGISE, PROVE ME WRONG, SAYS SATISH

Let us have a debate on the origin of the word: KPCC working prez

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

A day after stirring a controversy by claiming that the word 'Hindu' is Persian and has a dirty meaning, Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) working president Satish Jarkiholi on Tuesday said that he neither will apologise nor resign as MLA until his remarks are proved wrong by the government or anyone.

He challenged Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to constitute a committee to bring out the truth about the origin of the word Hindu.

"Let the chief minister get into the truth of the matter by giving a month's time to the committee," he elaborated.

While defending his statement, Satish said he had referred to several records and information on the Internet before commenting on the origin of the word Hindu. "It was not my personal opinion or assumption but an attempt made to dig into the facts tracing the origin of the word," he clarified.

The word Hindu originated from the Persian language and the facts about it are available in a dictionary published in 1964, he said, adding, "I feel there is a need for a debate on my statement. Unfortunately, discussions are being held on unrelated topics, deviating from the core issue of how the word Hindu came into use. I am ready to quit as MLA and tender an apology if I am proved wrong."

Jarkiholi repeated his statement that the word 'Hindu' was referred to as a bad word in Wikipedia and that was what he exactly stated during his speech in Nippani , Belagavi district, on Monday.

"I have not issued a statement against any religion, caste or community. We have the governments headed by the BJP at the State and Centre. Let them launch an inquiry to find out the truth. I am prepared to furnish historical facts and records to anyone who is willing to have a debate on the issue," he said.

Hitting out at the BJP leadership, Satish said, "Let us have a debate on the origin of the word Hindu on an independent platform comprising experts from both sides. I too have a team of experts and intellectuals with me. If the issue is debated by some sections of people without any logic, it would not have any significance,'' he added.

SHETTAR DARES CONG TO EXPEL SATISH

HUBBALLI: Senior BJP leader and former CM Jagadish Shettar has lashed out at the Congress over the recent statements on the origin of the word 'Hindu' by KPCC working president Satish Jarkiholi. Shettar dared the Congress to expel Satish. "It seems the Congress is allergic towards the word 'Hindu'. Dragging a non-issue into a discussion, that too at this juncture, shows how ignorant they are. The Congress finds solace in abusing Hindus, the tradition and culture. It wants to project itself as anti-Hindu to garner Minority votes," he added. "As the Congress realised that it is not getting Hindu votes, their leader Rahul Gandhi is claiming himself to be a Hindu-brahmin, flaunting the Janevu," he added.

Will seek clarification from Jarkiholi, says Shivakumar

BELAGAVI/HUBBALLI: Commenting on the statement of KPCC working president Satish Jarkiholi that the meaning of the word 'Hindu' is dirty, KPCC president D K Shivakumar on Tuesday said he will seek a clarification from Satish. He said the statement is the personal opinion of Satish and it will not damage the party. "Hindu religion has its own historical significance. Satish should not have issued such a statement on a public platform," Shivakumar said. Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah said he stands by AICC general secretary, Karnataka in-charge, Randeep Singh Surjewala, who tweeted on Monday condemning Satish's statement and saying the party does not have anything to do with it. Siddaramaiah said, "Already, Surjewala has reacted to it. That is my stand." But some leaders within the party said Siddaramaiah should not have distanced himself from the statement of Satish, who is his close associate. ENS

Cong responsible for dividing nation: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Shirahatti (Gadag)

CHIEF Minister Basavarj Bommai on Tuesday hit out at the Congress over its Bharat Jodo Yatra saying its leaders were responsible for dividing the nation.

Addressing the BJP's Jana Sankalpa Yatra here, Bommai said, "The party (Congress) that divided the nation into two... tried to turn Punjab into Khalistan is now taking out Bharat Jodo Yatra. The Congress claims it has built the nation. But it did not provide potable water and electricity to all the villages during its 60-year rule. The country waited for Narendra Modi to become the PM to ensure that all these basic needs reach the people."

He said the Congress' policy was to divide and rule. The Congress government led by Siddaramaiah divided the state and ruled, he said. The Congress has done injustice to the Minorities and its leaders have looted Wakf properties and a report in this regard has been placed in both houses of the Legislature, he recalled.

He charged that the Congress leaders use power to meet their selfish ends and they have started dreaming of coming back to power in Karnataka in 2023.

Former CM BS Yediyurappa, ministers Govind Karjol, CC Patil, BC Patil, and B Sriramulu, MP Shivakumar Udasi and others were present.

BJP GOES FOR SATISH ALL GUNS BLAZING

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru/Udupi/Gadag

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai and senior BJP leaders on Tuesday hit out at Opposition Congress over KPCC working president Satish Jarkiholi's remarks calling 'Hindu' a dirty word. The BJP dared the Congress leaders to seek Satish's resignation from the party post.

Satish is trying to vitiate the atmosphere in society and his remarks have hurt the sentiments of people, Bommai tol reporters in Udupi. The CM said the Congress is doing appeasement politics for the sake of votes and they are under the wrong impression of getting the Minority community votes through such statements. Satish should apologise for his remarks, Bommai said.

The CM said the Congress leaders are trying to disturb the very foundation of the belief of every Indian. Creating problems within the country amounts to the act of 'anti-nationalism' and everyone must condemn such acts, the CM said and added that senior Congress leaders' silence indicates their approval of Satish's statement.

Satish was still defending his remarks and the Congress must offer an unconditional apology and if it fails to do so, that party will lose its identity, Bommai added.

Later in the day, speaking to reporters in Shirahatti in Gadag, Bommai accused Satish of insulting the Hindus of India. "The Hindu religion is not only old but has a rich heritage and culture. They want to have a discussion on this subject, what was there to discuss on it?," he questioned. Former AICC president Rahul Gandhi and Leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly Siddaramaiah have not condemned it, he added.

Speaking at a Jana Sankalpa Yatra in Haveri, Bommai said that Satish is his friend and he should go to his school to check for documents where he has mentioned his religion as Hindu. "By making such statements, Congress has started Bharat Thodo (Divide) campaign," he added.

AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala, who had condemned the remarks, should seek Satish's resignation, the BJP state unit stated. Many BJP leaders, including ministers, took to social media to slam the Congress.

"All these years, the @INCIndia has been following Nehru who was against calling him a Hindu. The party never misses a chance to degrade the Hindu religion, Hindus, Hindutva & National ideals. Comments by @JarkiholiSatish is just a continuation of this tradition," tweeted Minister for Energy and Kannada and Culture V Sunil Kumar. He called upon the youth to take to the streets to oppose Satish's statement and condemn the same on social media. BJP general secretary in-charge of Karnataka Arun Singh said Congress must act against Satish and remove him from the party post. Singh said if the party fails to take action, that means its senior leaders endorse Satish's views. People of the state will teach a befitting lesson to the party that insults Hindus, he added.

BJP state unit president Nalin Kumar Kateel said a criminal case should be registered against Satish for hurting the sentiments of Hindus.

'Why should students be made to sit under the sun'

FORMER CM and JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy said, "Why issue such a circular in the first place and why cancel it? Why should students be made to sit under the sun at a public function to listen to the PM's speech."

Chief Whip of the Congress party in the Council Prakash Rathod told TNIE, "It is shameful that the government is using an official circular to mobilise crowds."

Some official sources, who did not wished to be named, were unconvinced about the sincerity of the government in withdrawing the circular. "Has the education minister denied that they held a crowd-mobilising meeting on November 2? Have the buses been cancelled? Have they penalised the persons who were arranging the buses?

HC sets aside order, Cong says will remove KGF tracks

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday set aside an order passed by a sessions court, directing Twitter to remove the links and temporarily block the accounts of INCIndia and BharatJodo -- managed by Congress -- over unauthorised use of copyrighted soundtracks of the film, KGF Chapter-2. The sessions court also appointed a commissioner to conduct an electronic audit of social media accounts of Congress party leaders.

Partly allowing the appeal filed by Congress against the injunction order of the sessions court on a suit filed by MRT Music, which owns the copyrights, a division bench of Justices G Narendar and PN Desai set aside the order. It was made clear that the order will not come in the matter of copyrights pending before the sessions court.

The HC passed the order after Congress admitted that it had taken 45 seconds of the audio inadvertently. A senior advocate, arguing on behalf of Congress, gave an undertaking that they will remove by Wednesday noon the offending material from all social media accounts.

The counsel argued that without issuing a notice to them, an ex-parte injunction order was passed by the sessions court. It not only paralysed the party's political activities through social media but also caused humiliation. Such orders cannot be passed unless there was ulterior or commercial motive behind using audio, he argued.

CM: Decision on appointing administrator to mutt soon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hosadurga (Chitradurga dt)

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai said the state government will soon take a decision on appointing an administrator for Murugha Mutt and SJM educational institutions, based on a report filed by the deputy commissioner (DC) to the revenue department.

Addressing media persons, the CM said an application requesting the appointment of an administrator to the Murugha Mutt has been received by the government. "We have directed the DC to submit a report as there is a procedure which the government has to follow before taking a decision."

He also said that the allegations against Dr Shivamurthy Murugha Sharanaru are before the court. "It will not be appropriate for me to comment on the issue," he said.

The CM also said that the people of the state will give a befitting reply to Congress leader Satish Jarkiholi for his controversial remarks on the word 'Hindu'.

Responding to a question on the BJP's Jana Sankalpa Yatra, Bommai said the yatra will turn into Vijaya Sankalpa in the run up to the assembly elections.

Bus Yatra: Siddaramaiah for north, DK Shivakumar for south?

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THERE is a buzz within Congress that during the upcoming Bus Yatra across the state ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls, opposition leader Siddaramaiah will tour northern districts, while KPCC president DK Shivakumar will pass through southern parts of the state.

The party will soon hold a meeting, where national general secretary, Karnataka incharge, Randeep Singh Surjewala and others will decide on the responsibility of each leader during the yatra, sources said.

KPCC working president Saleem Ahmed said the Bus Yatra, which will start in early December, will go through all districts and details will be worked out by the party leadership.

Sources said some in the party suggested that Siddaramaiah be given the responsibility of North Karnataka, considering that he is a leader of backward classes, whose presence is large in those parts, and he is an MLA from Badami. The leaders wanted Shivakumar to tour southern parts as he is an MLA from the area and is a Vokkaliga, who are numerically strong in the region, sources said.

While AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge and other leaders are aware of such a proposal, the final decision will be taken over the next few days, they said.

Saleem Ahmed said the party unity is important and both leaders should be together while travelling through districts. Earlier, some followers wanted Siddaramaiah alone to go on the bus yatra, but the party leadership decided that they both should do it.

VCs' plea: HC stops chancellor from issuing final orders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

THE Kerala High Court on Tuesday held that the final orders should not be issued by the chancellor until a decision is taken by the court in the writ petitions filed by the vice-chancellors challenging the show cause notice. In the notice, Governor Arif Mohammed Khan, who is the chancellor of all universities in the state, had asked the VCs to explain what legal right they have to hold the office.

Justice Devan Ramachandran issued the order on the petitions filed by Kannur University Vice-Chancellor Gopinath Ravindran and other VCs seeking to quash the show cause notice.

When the petitions came up for hearing, the chancellor's counsel Jaju Babu informed that all vice-chancellors gave their reply to the show cause notice by Monday evening.

He also sought three more days to file a counter affidavit because the chancellor was out of the station and returned only recently.

Kannur VC's counsel Ranjith Thampan submitted that he approached the court challenging the very authority of the chancellor to issue a show cause notice. The chancellor also has asked the vice-chancellors to appear for a personal hearing. The counsel sought an order restraining the chancellor from issuing final orders.

"Until and unless the case has been decided by the court, I don't want to go before the chancellor for a personal hearing as he had called me a criminal," submitted the counsel for the Kannur university VC. Then the court said "you decide whether you want to appear or not. It's your choice."

The Kannur VC submitted that he is holding the post after thorough legal scrutiny. Hence, the chancellor, who is only a statutory authority, cannot adjudicate the legality or otherwise of his appointment.

Neighbour's son held for killing ex-IB officer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

TWO persons have been arrested, including the prime suspect, three days after the murder of former Intelligence Bureau officer RN Kulkarni. The accused have been identified as Manu and Varun Gowda, who are in their 30s.

Manu, the prime accused in the case, is the son of Madappa, the victim's neighbour, with whom he had a legal fight over building construction.

"As of now, the motive looks like an ongoing dispute between Kulkarni and Madappa over construction of a building. Manu was the only occupant in the car. His friend, Varun, helped him with inputs regarding Kulkarni's movement, and Manu mowed him down," said Dr Chandragupta, Mysuru city police commissioner, during a press conference on Tuesday.

Dr Chandragupta had formed four special teams to nab the accused.

Although initially, it looked like a hit-and-run case, but later, it was established as a premeditated murder. Sub-division ACP Shivashankar and CCB ACB CK Ashwathnarayan were supervising the operations of the teams. Sources said that the car used to commit the crime belongs to one Raghu, who had approached Manu to sell his car. "The car has been seized," he said. Though Kulkarni's son-in-law Sanjaya Angadi had alleged that Madappa and his sons hatched a plot to kill Kulkarni, police have not arrested Madappa as his involvement in the case is yet to be established.

Dr Chandragupta announced a reward of ₹50,000 to the team of 50 police personnel who were involved in cracking the case.

Going hitech! Officials get bribe through UPI apps at checkpost

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mangaluru

MANGALURU Lokayukta police swooped down on transport department officials at the interstate checkpost at Talapady near Mangaluru and found them indulging in illegality and bribery using UPI mobile payment application like GooglePay and PhonePe.

It was at around 7.30 pm that all goods lorry drivers were at the checkpost to hand over 'mamul', a bribe. Dysfunctional CCTV cameras at the financially sensitive set ups, where interstate transportation is screened made it favourable for the practice to continue. A team of three Lokayukta officers, who were in civil dress, caught transporters handing over 'mamul' to the checkpost officials.

"We found unaccounted cash of up to Rs 2 lakh, which was paid using GPay. Most of the transporters, who end up paying the bribe, are from other states including Kerala. CCTV cameras are installed at the checkpost, but they were dysfunctional," said Laxmi Ganesh K, Superintendent of Police, Mangaluru Lokayukta Division.

He added, "We will verify the bank account details of the middlemen and RTO officials. The staff and middlemen used to collect the money and transfer it to the bank accounts of officers using Gpay. Some of the transporters are paying the amount through mobile apps of middle men who to transfer the money to RTO officials."

A lorry driver who transports good from Kerala to a fish oil company at Ullal near Mangaluru, was also at the checkpost during the raid. When SP Laxmi Ganesh inquired him about the bribe amount he pays for every trip, the driver answered on camera that he pays Rs 100.

Another lorry driver who was also caught red-handed giving bribe, openly admitted on camera that he pays ₹200 each during three trips a month and they pay at every checkpost.

Min: Vaastu course may be optional

THE minister said while the basic subjects will be mandatory, this could be in the optional category as a part of the integrated programme for students to choose from. "There are many civil engineers who want to know about it, and it is not bad," he said. "We will suggest to the engineering colleges to include it."

Meanwhile, this is the third time that the CPWD is organising training courses on Vaastu Shastra for engineering students, professionals, construction workers as well as those interested in the subject. The training on Vaastu Shastra focuses on techniques, design, meeting the requirements of the ancient science and yet ensure that the structure is legally compliant.

Although officials from the Karnataka Public Works Department are not part of this training, they said it is not a bad idea, and that if the state government wanted to hold similar training sessions, it would actually be beneficial.

However, the members of India March for Science are not amused, nor do they see anything beneficial in this. They said: "Vastu Shastra is an unscientific notion. The placement of doors, windows and furniture does not cause good or bad luck. On the other hand, sound architecture and structural engineering can ensure the longevity of buildings, thereby securing the safety of the occupants."

SC VERDICT MAY NOT BRING CLOSURE TO EWS QUOTA CONUNDRUM

The 3:2 Supreme Court verdict upholding 10% reservation for the Economically Weaker Section (EWS) of society marked a paradigm shift in defining affirmative action for the emancipation of the poorest of the poor. For the first time, it green-lighted using economic criteria as the sole basis of reservation, ruling it does not violate the basic structure of the Constitution. While all five members of the Constitution bench were okay with treating the economic situation as the lone yardstick, the divergence was on the exclusion clause in the EWS reservation as it barred from its ambit the poorest among the socially deprived sections like the SCs, STs and OBCs who are otherwise beneficiaries of various quota. (For context, in the landmark Indra Sawhney case in 1992, a nine-judge SC bench had ruled that economic backwardness alone could not be a criterion for reservation.) The majority view was that reservation is an instrument of affirmative action by the state to achieve the goal of an egalitarian state and should not be confined to those normally considered weaker sections of society. Justice Dinesh Maheshwari added that quota is an enabling provision and could not be regarded as a basic feature of the Constitution. But the dissenting judges, including outgoing Chief Justice of India U U Lalit, asserted that the 103rd Constitutional amendment in 2019 to create the EWS quota failed the basic structure doctrine as its exclusion clause was blatantly discriminatory. Total exclusion, they said, militates against the Constitution's equality code and non-discrimination principle. They were appalled by the majority verdict, worrying that the highest court was approving an exclusionary and discriminatory principle for the first time in seven decades.

The second contentious issue was whether the EWS quota violated the 50% ceiling set by the SC in the Indra Sawhney case. Justice Maheshwari claimed the cap is not inflexible or inviolable. But the minority view written by Justice Ravindra Bhat warned that its breach could open the quota floodgates and lead to further compartmentalisation by and by.

While the verdict may settle the butterflies for beneficiaries, for now, it might not bring closure to the matter. Several parties to the case are already preparing to file their appeals. Also, the other knotty question of the ₹8 lakh annual income criteria for eligibility to the EWS quota for education and jobs continues to hang fire.

PARTIES MUST DEBATE ALLUREMENTS FOLLY

Much has been written about the political implications of the fiercely-fought Munugode bypoll in Telangana, which the ruling Telangana Rashtra Samithi (TRS) has won, defeating its nearest rival, the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), by a little over 10,000 votes. Assembly elections for the state are a year away, and the scales can change in favour of either party. But, what is unlikely to change and, as such, must be a serious cause of concern, is the influence of money, liquor and other inducements.

Earlier this year, the Election Commission (EC) had enhanced the election expenditure ceiling for candidates in parliamentary and assembly constituencies to ₹95 lakh and ₹40 lakh, respectively. In Munugode, it was evident to everyone that candidates of the major parties spent much more than ₹40 lakh. Voters themselves admitted on camera that they had been given ₹4,000–₹5,000 each, and in a few instances, they took to the streets to demand even gold coins that were allegedly promised. And there were reports of supply of liquor worth almost ₹200 crore by the two main contestants—TRS and BJP.

Leaders of these two parties accused one another publicly of shelling out hundreds of crores to bribe the voters. This begs the question of whether the entire democratic exercise has been reduced to a farce. Without insulting the intelligence of the voters, we can safely say that bribes in cash and kind do impact an election since a sizeable number of the electorate now deem it their right to receive and the parties their compulsion to give. In other words, here we have voters and parties caught in a vicious cycle. Any candidate who seeks votes without offering doles, just on the strength of their sincerity of purpose, is more likely than not to lose. Who do we blame for this sorry state of affairs—the EC, the parties or the voters?

To be fair to the Election Commission, it can only monitor and dispatch forces to ensure the smooth conduct of the elections. The enforcement authorities, too, can only intercept cash or liquor flow to some extent. To pin the blame on them is to ignore the larger picture. If our democracy is to be meaningful, all the major political parties ought to realise that this is an unsustainable model to fight elections. Primary responsibility lies with them. This issue must be hotly debated first, not who won or lost and why.

QUICK TAKE

LOWERING THE AGE OF CONSENT

The Karnataka High Court sees the need to lower the minimum consenting age for minors. Today, minors fall in love, have sex, elope or marry. Can their valid consenting age still remain 18 under Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012? That's what the court wants the Law Commission to examine. Can the law possibly be revised to recognise consent by a teenager who is between 16 and 18—neither a child nor an adult? The dilemma is, wouldn't such conditionally valid consent come in the way of that law in protecting the teenager in case of a sexual offence? It's not so easy.

Judicial mysticism has fenced out many meritorious persons and blocked their access to the bench. There are no criteria or assessments of moral or intellectual calibre

CHOOSING THE UMPIRES OF DEMOCRACY

KALEESWARAM RAJ
Lawyer, Supreme Court of India

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Law Minister Kiren Rijiju has recently reiterated his criticism of the Supreme Court for striking down the constitutional amendment for introducing a National Judicial Appointment Commission (NJAC). He said the collegium system is opaque and undemocratic.

The minister is correct. His view is shared by many inside and outside the judiciary. Justice Krishna Iyer famously said that the collegium is a "curious creation with no backing under the Constitution". This judicial mysticism has fenced out thousands of meritorious persons and effectively blocked their access to the bench in the constitutional courts. There are no criteria, benchmarks, or assessments of moral or intellectual calibre.

Justice J Chelameswar, the lone dissenter in the NJAC judgment, posed a self-critical query: "Have we (the members of the judiciary) developed an alternate constitutional morality to emancipate us from the theory of checks and balances, robust enough to keep us in control from abusing such independence?" The judiciary has not satisfactorily answered this pertinent question so far. Justice Chelameswar also doubted whether the independence acquired by the judiciary, by way of the collegium, has been "a myth—a euphemism for nepotism enabling inter-alia promotion of mediocrity or even less, occasionally". Perhaps, rather than a theory, this is the Indian judicial experience to a considerable extent.

At the same time, the NJAC designed by the 99th Constitution Amendment Act also suffered serious deficits. As per Article 124A (as it stood), the NJAC was a numerically limited body. It should have had a better representative character. When the collegium was (correctly) criticised for lack of transparency, it was incumbent upon the lawmakers to ensure transparency in the functioning of the new body of NJAC. Sadly, while designing the NJAC, Parliament did not think it necessary to democratise the judicial selection process.

The Constitution of India is an evolving instrument. It has an organic character. It is inherently democratic, leaving a lot for the people of India to decide and implement through their representatives and the institutions. The president must make judicial appointments to the Supreme Court as per Article 124, and to the High Courts, as per Article 217 of the Constitution. It should be done after consultation with the Chief Justice of India. But the Constitution did not say that either the president or the chief justice can select the judge. The selection was a process left to the republic's political and judicial genius. The question is whether we could, as a nation, deal with this constitutional indulgence fairly and imaginatively and thereby develop a suitable system for choosing the umpires of democracy. The answer is dispiriting.

In the S P Gupta case, also known as the 1st Judges' case (1981), the Supreme Court made a literal reading of these provisions. It said that the president, thereby the executive, has predominance in the selection process. The cardinal distinction between selection and appointment was overlooked. Later, in the 2nd Judges' case (1993) and the 3rd Judges' case (1998), the Supreme Court, quite strangely, read the phrase "consultation with the Chief justice" as "concurrence of the Chief justice". It was not only an adjudicative tragedy. It was a judicial affront to the constitutional text. Thus, the collegium came into being. The NJAC judgment was an unholy extension of this judicial excessiveness.

As we have seen, a counter-narrative to the collegium should rest on a surer and stronger foundation. It cannot leave the judicial selection to the whims and fancies of the majoritarian regime either, as it can annihilate the very idea of constitutional democracy. Therefore, we need to transcend this binary and reimagine a better NJAC, which could be more independent, transparent, participative, and representative.

Here are certain suggestions that can help redesign the NJAC for democratising India's higher judiciary.

1. Fix specific benchmarks for judicial selection in terms of the candidates' professional, ethical, intellectual, and social characteristics, which an independent committee should evaluate. The new NJAC could be a larger body with eminent persons from different walks of public life who also should be judiciously selected. In the process, weed out the possibility of political or judicial supremacy. This could be done by determining its composition appropriately. The Judicial Appointment Commission in the UK is a fine example. It is a 15-member body often chaired by a layperson.

2. Ensure that every eligible and qualified person is permitted to apply for a position in the Constitutional Court. Canada attempted a new process by which "any qualified Canadian lawyer or a judge may apply for appointment as judge of the Supreme Court of Canada". (Ashok K M, Live Law, August 8, 2016). Article 16 offers equality of opportunity in public employment, and selection to the court cannot be an ironic exception. This vision must be the foundational idea of the new enactment.

3. Provide a transparent process of selection that starts with public notification and puts the details of the candidates in the public domain.

4. Ensure comprehensive consultations about the candidates before finalising selection, taking a cue from the Constitutional Reform Acts of the UK as amended in 2013. A pre-selection debate in Parliament is advisable, for which the US Senate is a model to be emulated. The deliberations should critically evaluate the antecedents of every candidate. Also, there could be an open interview of the candidates as experimented in South Africa and Kenya.

5. Try to avoid lawyers of the same bar becoming judges of the same High Court. It could result in the erosion of objectivity because of proximity and familiarity. It is ideal to have judges from different states in the High Courts, which would also help national integration.

6. There has to be a legal prohibition against judges of the High Court practising as lawyers in the Supreme Court after retirement or sometimes after resignation. Such an unhealthy trend could severely damage the judicial atmosphere.

7. Ensure consultation with lawyers' bodies like the Bar Council and the Bar Associations before confirming the appointment to the higher judiciary.

8. Never limit the judicial selection to lawyers and judges. Invoke Article 124(3)(c) of the Constitution to the select "distinguished jurists" for the Supreme Court, which unfortunately does not happen. The High Courts should also give legal academics a due share on the Bench.

The nation needs a radical course correction, which can take us to new legislative activism.

REMEMBERING ELA BHATT

SHIV VISVANATHAN
Social scientist associated with THE COMPOST HEAP, a group researching alternative imaginations

Elabehn died a few days ago. The obituaries were stiff with rigor mortis of recommendation certificates. She still feels alive. She was one of an earlier generation of activists and feminists who brought warmth into the world. Call it dignity, call it rights—Ela gave life to ideas by the way she fought for them and lived them out.

I first met her when she was already an icon and an idol; I was teaching at the Ambani Institute. She was upset with the 2002 riots. She was feeling alone and wanted to talk. She asked me to visit her once in a few weeks to talk, to discuss things. I learned so much though she asked all the questions. There was a grace to her, to her hospitality, her ritual of pouring tea, the happy way she spoke about her grandson, a school champion in skating. She was a storyteller, and I was a beneficiary of her memory, her innumerable friendships.

I loved her sense of Gandhi and her sense of colour. She could talk cloth like a philosopher-poet, weaving worlds before you. I was always puzzled that she did not get the Nobel for her idea. She gave women a sense of dignity. It was more than employment. It was a reinvention of citizenship which she translated for women into a graceful open everydayness.

She loved concepts but wanted them to dance, in an everyday sense. I remember once when she asked me to choreograph the word 'rights' which was getting too indexical. Rights, we felt, ranged across life, livelihood, lifestyles, and life cycle. It needed a symbiotic relation with each word above. That is why the Self Employed Women's Association (SEWA) was different. It created a sense of belonging. Women virtually became a commons of competence and conviviality.

I could understand why a Mandela, a Carter or a Hillary Clinton respected her. She was a housewife with an extraordinary sense of leadership. Between leadership and friendship, she sought to create a convivial world.

Even when critical, there was a gentleness to it. When corporates sprouted words like sustainability, she would smile wryly. As she said once, sustainability wore bow ties when it would have been easier with Khadi as an idiom.

There was a sense of scholarship about her. She vernacularised politics so that ordinary people could reinvent it. She was chancellor of the Vidyapeeth but her colleges were mandis (markets) and little shops where women eked out a living. She cared and tamed caring into a convivial politics. She sensed the music of persuasion. Even when she differed, there was wry laughter, an invitation to further conversation. Her sense of vernacular wove into the cosmopolitan. She was at ease in a world conference of leaders and at home in addas (discussion groups). I remember a friend of mine once telling me, "Her life is like a beautiful weave, ordered and aesthetic, full of classic colour."

FILE PICTURE

> I could understand why a Mandela, a Carter or a Hillary Clinton respected her. She was a housewife with an extraordinary sense of leadership. Between leadership and friendship, she sought to create a convivial world

There was an imp in her, mixed with a sense of sadness as she saw the BJP come to power. She hinted that they were the new viceroys. Lutyens was no longer only in Delhi. She could read and smell the corruption of power but sensed its limits. She felt the BJP was outdated but still very powerful and that one day, it would be obsolete. Lord Acton would have approved.

Her last book was a classic, not just a major feminist tract. Her Grihani theory of politics was a brilliant combination of Swadeshi and Swaraj. It created a politics of everydayness which could last for eternity.

Her favourite archetype in history was the housewife. Now the housewife turned the earth into a household. There was none of the pompousness of globalisation here. Women in a household were a dance of ideas. The household became the global commons as caring and empathy took over sovereignty. Governance was reworked around the conviviality of a household. Few in their lives and work have used Gandhi so creatively.

Swadeshi and Swaraj combined to create a new internationalism at a time when international relations were running dry, rife with triteness. Grihani captured the housewife as the new custodian of work and peace. I remember when she was working on politics and war, she would advocate the trusteeship of peace on women. Give women work, a livelihood is born. Caring follows like newborn civics.

Ela was an acute watcher of people. Her sympathy and her sense of friendship with Hillary Clinton was mutual. Each sensed the strength, pain, and patience in the other. Hillary was one of the great admirers of SEWA and each treated it like a perpetual hypothesis, a world to be reinvented every day.

The Grihani was the caring inventor, not illiterate about obsolescence. Caring was a Linus blanket that Ela wanted to wrap around the world. She gave Gandhi and feminism a new dimension by creatively rereading both. Her confidence in her colleagues was amazing. Whether it was Reema or Renala, she felt at ease in their presence. She was grateful to them for it. She wanted to do new things. At sixty, she learned music, practicing Riyaz for hours.

The lasting impression I have of her is waiting on the 'swing'. A swing is a dance of postures, a dream world no claim can claim. I can still see her swing back and forth on the jhoola, welcoming the world. A great woman. More so, a quiet friend. One still remembers her as a presence, a storyteller, creating a commons of activism around her. Feminism was more than rights, it was a way of embracing the world and caring for it. One is grateful to her for it.

This column is a quiet thank you to the few years we gossiped about the world. Bye Elabehn. I will miss your laugh and the grace of tea. You gave a new meaning to SEWA.

A welcome addition

Apropos of the quick take, A new undergraduate degree format (Nov 8). The four-year course is a welcome addition since it is progressive and convenient, enabling students to switch or discontinue courses after each academic year. The flip side is the confusion it has created in the young minds.

A level playing field

Apropos of 3 Ayes, 2 Nays. EWS quota upheld (Nov 8). SC/ST communities have been enjoying the lion's share of reservations for a long time. So, this judgement, which upholds the constitutional validity of the 103rd Constitutional Amendment that grants 10% reservation to EWS, creates a level playing field.
K V Raghuram, Wayanad

Verdict on EWS

The SC's 3:2 decision has two main flaws. One is that it legitimises poverty as a criterion for reservation. The other is the exclusion of all except the forward castes from the ambit of the 103rd Constitutional Amendment. Why an SC, ST or OBC person suffering the same level of poverty should not get the benefit of this reservation is something worth asking. The verdict makes me wonder how Dr B R Ambedkar would have reacted to it.

Prepping for permacrisis

Apropos of Coming to grips with permacrisis in our lives (Nov 8). This column is really an interesting and enlightening read. It has touched with sensitivity the crisis of an undesirable scenerio, highlighting the rapid changes in the way of living. All on paper

With regards to permacrisis, it has created the worst and costliest job crisis in history. In Karnataka for instance, a huge chunk of money has been invested in different projects, but we have weak infrastructure, potholes on roads, etc. And job creation seems like a dream. It looks like it is all on paper but far from implementation.

EWS quota verdict charges up Opposition

Nitish demands removal of 50% reservation cap, caste census; TN CM Stalin wants an all-party meet

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

A day after the Supreme Court upheld the 10 per cent reservation for Economically Weaker Sections (EWS) in educational institutions and government jobs, Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar sought the removal of the 50 per cent cap on reservations and revived his demand for a nationwide caste survey.

"The SC ruling was fair enough. We were always in support of the quota. However, it is high time that 50 per cent should be increased. The cap is depriving OBCs and EBCs of opportunities in proportion to their population," he said.

Reiterating his demand for a countrywide caste census, he said that there should be a rethinking on the caste census. The Union government is yet to clarify its position on conducting a nationwide caste census.

"We were told that states could hold such headcounts. We have undertaken that exercise. But this needs to be done on the national level as well," said Kumar.

Though Congress welcomed the verdict, its ally in Tamil Nadu, DMK, said that it would file a review petition in the Supreme Court. "The verdict hits at the heart of equality enshrined in the Constitution," said a party statement, describing the verdict as a setback for the century-old struggle for social justice. Chief Minister M K Stalin also called for an all-party meeting on November 12 to discuss further courses of action. A statement from the CMO said that a letter was sent to all the legislative party leaders.

"A constitutional amendment was passed by the Union government in 2019 to provide 10% reservation in education and employment to the economically backward classes. Hon'ble Supreme Court on 7 11-2022 has ruled that 10% reservations will go to economically backward advanced classes in a case filed against this reservation act. As this system of reservation is against social justice and equality and against the principle of social justice, to discuss and decide the next steps to be taken in this regard with all the party leaders of the Assembly, on 12-11-2022 (Saturday) at 10:30 am at the Chief Secretariat," read the statement.

Meanwhile, the Communist Party of India (CPI) said that the SC verdict should be referred to a full bench for review as it creates apprehensions.

In a statement, the Left party said the judgment has brought to the fore "pertinent questions" about its impact on reservation for Scheduled Caste, Scheduled Tribe and Other Backward Classes in the absence of caste census, non-availability of data and criteria to determine the economically weaker sections of forward castes. "The judgment has created apprehensions with several political parties and social movements demanding that the judgment be referred to a larger constitution bench of the Supreme Court for clarification and constitutional merit of the judgment.

The party also stressed that the legislative intent behind reservation was not poverty alleviation, but affirmative action for historically discriminated and deprived sections of society. "CPI demands that a full bench of the Supreme Court review the present judgment. The legislative intent behind reservation was not poverty alleviation but affirmative action for historically discriminated and deprived sections of our society," the party said.

It also said that at a time when privatisation is being "aggressively pursued" by the present government, the fight for reservation in the private sector must continue with even greater strength. "Refer the SC verdict on reservation for EWS to the full bench," it said.

In Tamil Nadu, Viduthalai Chiruthaigal Katchi (VCK) founder Thirumavalavan said that the party will file a curative petition in the SC, challenging the verdict.

1st privately-built rocket set for launch anytime between Nov 12 and 16

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

GIVING a fillip to Indian rocketry, a Hyderabad-based space exploration start-up will launch the country's first privately built and designed rocket, Vikram-S, between November 12 and 16. Announcing this on Tuesday, Skyroot Aerospace CEO Pawan Kumar Chandana said that " a launch window between November 12 and 16 has been notified by authorities even as the final date for the operation will be confirmed based on weather conditions".

Skyroot Aerospace's maiden mission, which has been named 'Prarambh', will carry three customer payloads and will be launched from Indian Space Research Organisation's (ISRO) Satish Dhawan Space Centre spaceport at Sriharikota.

The first space mission for Skyroot was unveiled by ISRO chairman Dr S Somanath in Bengaluru on November 7. This followed the clearance for technical launch received from IN-SPACe (Indian National Space Promotion and Authorisation Centre), the single window nodal agency for promoting and regulating space-tech players.

The mission will propel Skyroot Aerospace as the first privately-run space exploration company to launch a rocket into orbit and is expected to boost the sector which was opened up in 2020.

"The Vikram-S rocket is a single-stage sub-orbital launch vehicle which would carry three customer payloads and help test and validate the majority of the technologies in the Vikram series of space launch vehicles," Skyroot Aerospace Chief Operating Office Naga Bharath Daka said. Skyroot's launch vehicles are named 'Vikram' as a tribute to the founder of the Indian space programme and renowned scientist Vikram Sarabhai.

The company's business development lead Sireesh Pallikonda said that work on Vikram-S began in 2018 and it took four years to design, develop, manufacture , test and now launch the vehicle which is based on a "solid propellant technology". Built using an all-carbon fibre structure, the Vikram series rockets are capable of carrying up to 800 kg payloads to the Low Earth Orbit.

Skyroot has successfully built and tested India's first privately developed cryogenic, hypergolic-liquid, and solid fuel-based rocket engines. The research and development and production activities extensively use advanced composite and 3D-printing technologies.

ISRO set for reusable launch vehicle test

Bengaluru: ISRO is set for the first runway landing experiment of Reusable Launch Vehicle - Technology Demonstrator from aeronautical test range in Karnataka's Chitradurga district. According to ISRO officials, the RLV wing body will be carried using a helicopter to an altitude of 3-5 km and released at a distance of about 4-5 km ahead of the runway with a horizontal velocity. After the release, the RLV will glide, navigate towards the runway and land autonomously with a landing gear in the defence airfield near Chitradurga.

CJI Lalit: 'Bench-mark' justice who set tone for delivery, disposal at SC

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

CHIEF Justice of India, UU Lalit, one of the most humble and patient CJIs who addressed every lawyer appearing in his court as Sir and Ma'am irrespective of their seniority, demitted office on Tuesday after a short tenure of 74 days.

Appointed as 49th CJI on August 27, 2022, he was the second CJI to be elevated from bench to the bar and sixth judge to be elevated directly to the Supreme Court. The country's topmost court, along with lawyers, journalists and common man, under his leadership, had witnessed many "firsts" and "historic and unprecedented moves".

The SC under his aegis was successful in taking the slice out of the mounting areas by disposing of more than 10,000 matters. With a view to reduce pendency, the top court also disposed of 13,000 matters that were lying in several defects for several years but were being maintained in the files.

On his last day, a bench led by him by upheld the validity of 10% quota granted to the Economically Weaker Section (EWS) with a 3:2 majority. But, CJI Lalit was part of the bench that gave a minority view and held the amendment as destroying the "equality code". As a CJI, bench headed by him, granted interim bail to social activist Teesta Setalvad, set aside HC's order of accepting pleas seeking ED probe against Jharkhand CM Hemant Soren for alleged money laundering through several shell companies and also granted bail to Kerala journalist Siddique Kappan in the "Hathras Conspiracy case".

CJI Lalit-led bench also acquitted three men who were given death penalties for gangrape and murder of a 19 year old woman at Chhawla in Delhi in 2012 and paved way for hanging of LeT terrorist by dismissing his pleas seeking review of the SC verdict upholding his death penalty for sensational attack in 2000 Red Fort attack case.

As SC judge, he was part of the bench that had ruled the practice of triple talaq as unconstitutional. Justice Lalit-led bench had also junked NIA's plea challenging default bail granted to lawyer activist Sudha Bharadwaj in the 2018 Bhima Koregaon case by the Bombay HC and also granted relief with regular bail on medical grounds to activist and poet Dr P Varavara Rao, an accused in the same case. He had also delivered the ruling of the erstwhile royal family of Travancore having management right over the historic Sree Padmanabhaswamy Temple in Kerala, one of the richest shrines.

Six constitution benches were set up in the brief period of 74 days when Lalit was at the helm.

Pandemic stress drove women, especially with kids, to alcohol

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

WOMEN, especially with young kids, affluent families and those suffering from anxiety and depression, reported an increase in alcohol consumption during Covid-19, and the main reason was stress, according to the latest survey carried out by an NGO, which works to protect communities and individuals from drunk driving and underage drinking.

The survey conducted among 5,000 women in the age group between 18 years — 68 years in Delhi found that, as compared to men, fewer women drink regularly. Still, almost seven per cent admitted to risky or harmful drinking.

Over 62 per cent of women agreed to spend more on alcohol during the Covid-19 lockdown, post lockdown and when restrictions started easing up in the country, said the survey conducted by Community Against Drunken Driving (CADD).

Over 77% of women agreed better retail shops, home delivery, buy one get one (BOGO) offers, and discounts made alcohol buying more attractive

The pandemic pushed many women into a complex mental and emotional state starting from loneliness, and caregiver load, with women almost three times more likely than men to be looking after children full-time, managing household chores and professional responsibilities on their own during Covid-19, it added.

"Loss of jobs, incidents of physical and mental abuse also increased during the pandemic, which added to the mental health burden for women during Covid-19," said the survey, which was conducted around malls, markets, bars and pubs from August to October this year to assess if drinking patterns have altered in the last three years, especially in light of the pandemic and the stresses it put on individuals and households. Better retail shops, buy one get one (BOGO) offers, and discounts made alcohol buying more attractive for women, the survey said. According to road safety expert and activist Prince Singhal, founder of CADD, "Recent trends have shown increased alcohol use among women. While many believed the figures would go down, alcohol consumption increased."

"Having more drinks also indicated that alcohol was being had either to deal with emotional or mental issues, under the social influence or sometimes because they have developed a higher resistance to alcohol," he said. "It is a known phenomenon that alcohol is consumed excessively during stress. Stressful events correlate with higher levels of alcohol consumption at the population level. The situations in Indian homes during Covid-19 significantly affected collective mental health. For many people, social disconnection, financial strain, increased obligations in the home, and ongoing uncertainty created distress — and with it, a need for new ways of coping," Singhal added.

Gadkari says sorry for faulty roads in BJP-ruled MP

ANURAAG SINGH@ Bhopal

AWFUL state of roads was among the key factors, which prompted people to vote out the Digvijaya Singh-led Congress government after a stint of 10 years in power in 2003. Nineteen years later, the Union Minister for Road Transport and National Highways Nitin Gadkari has apologized to people of the BJP-ruled central Indian state for faulty construction of ₹400 crore worth road stretch on the highway between Jabalpur and Mandla.

> I don't hesitate in apologizing for the quality of work on the highway connecting Jabalpur and Mandla. I regret the quality of ₹400 crore work done on the 63 km stretch of this project
> Nitin Gadkari, Union Minister

"I don't hesitate in apologizing for the quality of work on the highway connecting Jabalpur and Mandla. I regret the quality of ₹400 crore work done on the 63 km stretch of this project, between Barela and Mandla. The local MP and union minister Faggan Singh Kulaste too has been raising this issue regularly with me and I feel sorry, pained and also unsatisfied with the quality of work done on the concerned two lane road," Gadkari said while addressing an event marking laying of foundation of multiple road projects in Mandla district on Sunday evening.

"Before coming to this event, I've told the concerned officials to suspend the remaining work on the concerned road project with mutual consent, repair old work and issue fresh tenders to soon construct the road in the best possible manner," Gadkari said.

Knowing the enormous tourist potential in the tribal dominated Mahakoshal region of MP, the union minister said, "I've talked to one of the NHAI members, who hails from MP only. Kanha National Park and Tiger Reserve has enormous tourist potential and needs to be connected through best roads. The Kanha National Park and districts of Balaghat, Seoni, Mandla and Jabalpur which connect with Nagpur will be included in the Gati Shakti Road Cluster project," Gadkari maintained.

The Union Minister also announced approving 23 road overbridges (RoBs) worth over ₹1600 crore for MP under the nationwide Setu Bharatam Project.

I&B minister says BJP will work to strengthen infra projects in remote areas of hill state

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

UNION Minister for Information and Broadcasting Anurag Singh Thakur on Tuesday said his party aims to further improve transport and infrastructure in Himachal Pradesh in the next five years.

The minister, who represents the Hamirpur Lok Sabha constituency of the state, said the Congress has always put obstacles in the development. "Only the BJP government has brought several development projects to the hill state," he said.

The biggest challenge before the people living in the hills, he said, is connectivity. "That's why the BJP's Sankalp Patra (manifesto) has made resolutions to transform transport and infrastructure in Himachal. We have worked tirelessly to provide connectivity to the people of Himachal Pradesh and succeeded. We will do it together with your support and blessings," said Thakur while addressing a rally in Himachal Pradesh.

He has been touring the state and holding election meetings every day. Polling for the 68-member Himachal Pradesh assembly will take place on November 12, and counting votes will be conducted on December 8.

Thakur on Tuesday addressed five public meetings in Ghumarwin, Jhanduta and Sadar Vidhan Sabhas of Bilaspur district.

Union Minister for Information and Broadcasting Anurag Singh Thakur has been touring the state and holding election meetings every day

Speaking about the ambitious 'Shakti' programme, the Union minister said, "The Yojana will be implemented to develop infrastructure and transport around religious places in Himachal. Under 'Shakti', ₹12,000 crore will be spent over a period of 10 years."

He said the BJP's 'double engine' government (Central and state governments) will ensure that every village in Himachal Pradesh is connected by a pucca road in five years. Thakur said the number of mobile clinic vans would be doubled in every Vidhan Sabha seat to provide health facilities in far-flung areas with ease. Referring to infrastructure development projects undertaken by the state, the minister said in the last eight years, 12,000 km of road have been built. "Hamirpur is going to be the second district of Himachal after Una, which will be connected by a broad gauge railway line. Three Vande Bharat trains were running in the country. Prime Minister Narendra Modi gave the fourth train to Himachal and rode it in Una. Today India's most modern train has started operating in Himachal," he said.

Terming the Congress 'anti-development', Thakur said that party snatched the rights of Bilaspur. "We kept getting big projects approved from the Centre but Congress kept stopping them. We approved AIIMS worth Rs 1,470 crore for Himachal but Congress did not give us land for four years," he added.

Kangra tea industry dying slow death

HARPREET BAJWA @ Palampuri

KNOWN for its unique flavour, the world famous Kangra Tea that was introduced to Himachal Pradesh by the British in the 1850s, is now dying a slow death. The tea cultivators once again have requested the state to lend them a helping hand by giving them financial assistance as the land under tea plantation has now come down to just 2,300 hectares and only 9 lakh kgs of tea is produced annually.

The reasons behind reduction in areas can be attributed to no subsidy, lack of labour from Jharkhand and West Bengal, high cost of production and the land holdings getting smaller by the day.

Manuj Mandhotra, president of Kangra Valley Small Tea Planters Association said, "We have been demanding that the tea planters should be given subsidies but nobody has listened to our demands till date. Until 2003, we were given subsidies and then it was stopped. We want a 50 per cent subsidy on tea plucking machines. At least 75 per cent of the tea planters in Kangra have switched over to mechanized cultivation due to shortage of labour."

Expelled from BJP, Lodhi might join SP

Pritam Singh Lodhi, the OBC leader who was expelled by BJP three months back over outraging remarks about Brahmins and women, can join another party. If sources are to be believed he can join Akhilesh Yadav-led Samajwadi Party. Recently, former SP MP from UP Dharmendra Yadav broke Lodhi's fast unto death over a major public issue, amid unconfirmed reports of the ex-BJP leader meeting Yadav recently. Importantly, while Lodhi had twice lost on BJP ticket from Pichhore seat of Shivpuri district in 2013 and 2018 assembly polls, the lone SP MLA in MP, Rajesh Shukla (Bijawar) had joined BJP in Bhopal ahead of presidential polls in July 2022.

Congress to launch new faces in next election

While the next assembly polls in MP are still a year away, the prime opposition is believed to be working on the idea of fielding young faces on seats, which have not been won by it since decades. Youth Congress's national president BV Sriniwas recently dropped hints about more youth Congress leaders being possibly fielded in 2023 year end polls in MP. He said the prospective candidates have already been identified by YC and given major tasks, if they succeeded in accomplishing those tasks, their chance of being fielded in next polls may be better. One of its young leaders Vipin Wankhede had won the Agar-SC seat in 2020 bypolls.

₹1,000 fine for letting loose cattle on streets

Letting loose or tethering cattle or any other animal on public street will invite a fine of up to Rs 1,000 in Madhya Pradesh. A suitable amendment in this regard to the MP Municipalities Act 1961 and the MP Municipal Corporation Act 1956 through an ordinance was gazette notified recently. As per the amendment, anyone who wilfully or negligently lets loose or tethers cattle or other animal on public street or public place for causing public injury or nuisance will be punishable with a fine not exceeding Rs 1000. The amendment has been necessitated due to a growing number of road mishaps being caused by stray cattle in MP.

Gyanvapi verdict deferred to November 14

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

A fast-track court of Varanasi, seized of the petition seeking permission to worship a purported Shivling, which was found in the ablution pond of Gyanvapi mosque premises during May survey, has deferred its verdict in the matter to November 14.

The plea, filed by three members of Vishwa Vedic Sanatan Sangh, including its international general secretary Kiran Singh, had also sought a ban on the entry of Muslims in the Gyanvapi premises, and handing over the entire complex area to Hindus. The fast track court of civil judge (senior division) had to pass order over the maintainability of a suit filed by the Vishwa Vedic Sanatan Sangh(VVSS).

Additional district government counsel (civil) Sulabh Prakash said, "As the civil judge (senior division) FTC Mahendra Kumar Pandey was on leave on Tuesday no further proceeding in this could take place and the next date for hearing was fixed as November 14."

Lotus part of G20 logo, Modi hardsells concept

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday unveiled the G20 logo that features a lotus, which also happens to be the BJP's party symbol. The release of the logo came days before Assembly elections in Himachal Pradesh while Gujarat will go to polls in the next few weeks,

Modi, however, reasoned that the lotus in the logo is a representation of hope in troubled times. India will assumes G20 presidency from December 1.

"No matter how adverse the circumstances, the lotus still blooms. Even if the world is in a deep crisis, we can still progress and make the world a better place. In Indian culture, both the goddess of knowledge and prosperity are seated on a lotus. This is what the world needs most today. Shared knowledge that helps us overcome our circumstances, and shared prosperity that reaches the last person at the last mile," Modi said.

Netziens, however, saw in it a subtle injection of the BJP symbol to duck the election commission's radar.

The seven petals of the lotus in the logo represent the seven continents, Modi said. Seven is also the number of notes in the universal language of music. In music, when the seven notes come together, they create perfect harmony. But each note has its own uniqueness. Similarly, G20 aims to bring the world together in harmony while respecting diversity.

"The G-20 event is a reflection of the strength of 130 crore Indians. Today's world is looking at collective leadership with great hope. India maintains close relations with developed countries, and at the same time understands, articulates, well the point of view of developing countries," Modi added.

Ideas crowd-sourced

The G20 logo draws inspiration from the colours of the Tricolour – saffron, white and green, and blue. It juxtaposes planet Earth with the lotus. The Earth reflects India's pro-planet approach. Ideas for the logo were crowd-sourced

Shah highlights PM's efforts to boost drinking water supply in Gujarat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Ahmedabad

HOME Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday shared a short video to highlight Prime Minister Narendra Modi's efforts to augment water supply in Gujarat, saying the state suffered the water crisis 21 years ago, but every household has the tap water supply.

"Everyone, especially the youth in Gujarat, must watch the video that highlights Modi's foresight and hard work in dealing with the state's water crisis," Shah tweeted.

The video says the water table in the state had plummeted to 200 m in 2001, the year Modi took over as its chief minister, from 30 metre in 1975, and its dry and arid area was growing.

Through various schemes, the then state government under Modi built a network of canals spanning across 1,126 km and supplied piped water to households while the height of the Narmada dam was raised to 138.68 metre, it says.

Modi was the Gujarat CM from 2001-14 before becoming the prime minister.

The Assembly polls in the state are due December 1 and 5, and the BJP is pulling out all the stops to maintain its winning streak since 1995.

On Monday, Gujarat Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel, state party chief CR Patil and other state organizational leaders reached Delhi to participate in a two-day central election committee meeting and the parliamentary board meeting.

Reports said Patil and Gujarat CM held a protracted meeting at Shah's residence. The BJP will hold a meeting of its Central Election Committee (CEC) on Wednesday evening to finalise the first list of candidates for the Assembly polls.

"For the panel selection of BJP candidates, Shah stayed in Gujarat for three days starting last Thursday and finalized a panel of three candidates from four zones of Gujarat, which include North Gujarat, Central Gujarat, South Gujarat, and Saurashtra Zone," said a source. A BJP leader said more than 3,500 candidates were taken up for 182 seats in the Gujarat Parliamentary Board meeting held for three days in the presence of Amit Shah.

11-TIME CONGRESS MLA JOINS BJP IN GUJ

Mohansinh Rathwa, 11-time Congress MLA from Chhota Udaipur in Gujarat, resigned from Congress and joined BJP on Tuesday. He had said that he will not contest the next assembly elections. After joining BJP in presence of senior BJP leaders at BJP headquarters in Gandhinagar, Rathva said, "I worked in the Congress for so many years but now the time has changed... My son wanted me to join the BJP so I joined the party."

Muslim 'kin' help orphan Hindu girl get married

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

A beautiful example of Hindu-Muslim brotherhood was seen in Ramgarh town of Alwar district. People from Muslim community in this Rajasthan town recently put in major efforts for organising the wedding of an orphan Hindu girl. In the marriage of the girl, who had lost her parents in childhood, the people from the Muslim community arrived as maternal uncles for a special ceremony called myra or bhaat. They gave Rs 31,000 and other gifts to the girl and helped in arranging food for the wedding party.

When the bride Aarushi, a resident of Ramgarh, was just one year old, her parents had passed away. Despite coming from a poor background, her uncle Jayaprakash Jangid raised Aarushi and helped her in her education till MA. Last Friday, her marriage was fixed with Dalchand, a resident of Dholi Dubh. When this information reached the Anjuman Education Committee president and Panchayat Samiti president Nasru Khan, he and the committee came forward to fill Aarushi's myra in view of the poor financial condition of the family.

The members reached Aarushi's house and got her marriage conducted with full rituals. They regarded Aarushi's aunt as their sister and covered her with a chunari. Other wedding items were given as gifts and the cost of arranging the ceremony was also borne by the Anjuman Education Society. Nasru Khan blessed the bride Aarushi while performing Hindu rituals. He asserted, "I reach out to the girls who do not have parents. In this case, Aarushi was brought up by her uncle and aunty and we fulfilled all needs according to Hindu customs. Though there is an atmosphere of communalism in our Ramgarh because elections are often contested on the basis of Hindu-Muslim divide, we have done this as a part of our Ganga Jamni Tehzeeb. It is an attempt to keep the Tehzeeb (culture) alive. We hope and pray that the distance between the two religions decreases and our brotherhood increases. Anyway, this is not about religion but humanity as one feels happy after a girl from a poor family gets married."

At the time of farewell, Aarushi hugged her benefactors. Her uncle Jayprakash Jangid said that he will never forget the positive gesture. "Despite the poverty situation, we got Aarushi educated till MA and I was marrying my daughter by taking loan from people. But the people of Muslim society who came to fill the Mayra took away half of my tension. I can never thank them enough."

By collecting money among themselves, the members of the committee have done similar deeds for daughters of five Hindu families who could not afford marriage expenses. They have also organised mass marriages of 560 Muslim daughters in the past.

Good news from U'khand: Survey shows kids' average height is up

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

CHILDREN of Uttarakhand origin have grown taller, finds a survey. According to the National Family Health Survey-NFHS Five report, 25% of children up to five years of age in Uttarakhand are taller than average.

Talking to this newspaper, Secretary Health & Medical education, Dr R Rajesh Kumar said there has been a big change for the better in the physical appearance of small children in the state. "It is a major improvement. The health of the children of the state has improved and the incidents of dwarfism (below-average height) have decreased by 8%," said Kumar.

According to the National Family Health Survey-NFHS 5 report, 25% of children up to five years of age in Uttarakhand are tall, said Kumar. This figure was 33% in the previous National Family Health Survey report, he said.

Why kids were below the required height

- The quality of mid-day meals was not good in previous years
- Physical activity in Anganwadi centres was low.
- Children bunked Anganwadi centres due to lack of proper checking or monitoring

HOW THEY HAVE BECOME TALLER

- 148 teams spread across U'khand are regularly inspecting anganwadi centres and checking attendance
- Accountability fixed for those responsible for serving mid-day meals

"Not only has the height of children increased in the state, but their weight has also gone up," said Kumar. State Health Department Director Dr Saroj Naithani said the improvement has come about through the efforts of 600 trainers associated with the Health Department. "They have played an important role in motivating out-of-school children to anganwadi and other educational facilities," said Naithani.

"In the last two years, our team has done unprecedented work at the grassroots level, as a result of which malnutrition in children has been removed as well as their physical development has changed for the better," said Naithani.

The average height of a five-year-old should be 105 to 110 cm," says Dr D S Rawat, pediatrician and former director general of health. "Such children should weigh between 18 and 20 kg. The biggest reason behind improving children's health is better nutrition and vaccination."

REPUBLICANS LOOK TO WREST CONGRESS FROM DEMS AS US VOTES IN MIDTERM

Biden's agenda at stake as polls predict GOP to seize control of House of Representatives

WASHINGTON

REPUBLICANS are eager to claw back power in Congress, working to break the Democrats' one-party hold in Washington and putting the future of President Joe Biden's agenda at stake this Election Day.

With the narrowly held House and an evenly split Senate, Democrats could easily see their fragile grasp on power slip as they face a new generation of Republican candidates.

Charismatic outsiders and populists, many newcomers to public office who have become inspired by former president Donald Trump, promise to end Biden's once lofty ideas and launch investigations and oversight even, potentially, impeachment of Biden.

Tuesday brings the first major national elections since the January 6, 2021 attack on the Capitol, and emotions are raw. The violent assault on Speaker Nancy Pelosi's husband has stunned many, and federal law enforcement is warning of heightened threats nationwide against lawmakers. Biden's party is labouring to hold on by the most tenuous of margins. All 435 seats in the House and one-third of the Senate are being contested. If Republican newcomers help the party seize control of the House, and possibly the Senate, the outcome will pose new challenges for Congress' ability to govern.

"I do think that this will end up being a period of government that is defined by conflict," said Brendan Buck, a former top aide to the past two Republican speakers of the House. Divided government has historically offered the possibility of bipartisan deal-making, but the Republican candidates are campaigning instead on a platform to stop Democrats. Without a unified agenda of their own, the Republicans are running toward crises and confrontations as they promise to cut federal spending, refuse to raise the nation's debt limit and balk at supporting Ukraine.It all points to potential gridlock ahead. "They're going to make very clear that there's a new sheriff in town," Buck said.

Vote counting could extend beyond Election Day in many states, and Georgia in particular could head to a Dec. 6 runoff if no candidate reaches the majority. Republicans need a net gain of five seats in the House to achieve the 218-seat majority and a net gain of one to seize control of the Senate. The 50-50 Senate is now in Democratic hands because Vice President Kamala Harris can cast a tie-breaking vote, in what has been one of the longest stretches of a split Senate in modern times.

Thirty-six states are electing governors, with Democrats particularly focused on holding control of Michigan, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania. All three critical presidential battlegrounds have Republican-controlled legislatures and GOP gubernatorial candidates who have championed Trump's 2020 election lies.

OMCs' losses mount to ₹21K crore in first half

RAKESH KUMA @ New Delhi

EVEN as the government provided one-time ₹22,000 crore relief, the oil marketing companies continued to bleed in the second quarter as well.

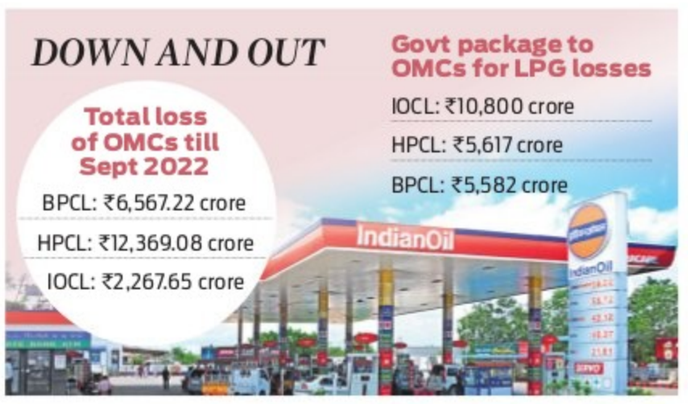
The combined loss of fuel retailers -- Indian Oil Corporation (IOC), Bharat Petroleum Corporation (BPCL) and Indian Oil Corporation (IOC) -- stood at ₹2,748.66 crore in July-September quarter.

The companies attributed their loss to erosion in the marketing margin on petrol, diesel and domestic liquefied petroleum gas (LPG). OMCs have not revised the price of petrol and diesel for the past months, despite inflated crude prices in the international market.

Overall, in the first half of the current financial year, the three government-owned OMCs have reported a cumulative loss of ₹21,400 crore.

According to analysts, OMCs are losing an estimated ₹per litre on petrol and ₹10 per litre on diesel.

Market experts are of the view that if the government doesn't come up with another relief package, the companies will have no choice but to hike the fuel price. "Tax collections have been good despite some slowdown, so alternatives could surely be explored .. but generally preferred more for LPG than for fuels," said Gaurav Moda, India Energy Leader, EY.



Prashant Vasisht, VP and Co-Group Head at ICRA, said it is very difficult to predict when the government will come up with a new relief package. However, historically, OMCs have been aided by the government in times of large under-recoveries and these companies had to bear limited net under-recoveries.

"As these companies are important for energy needs and aid in fulfilling socio-economic objectives of the government, they have been supported by the government in the past," said Vasisht.

BPCL, which has released its Q2FY23 result on Monday (Nov 7, 2022), reported a loss of ₹304.17 crore in Q2.

It has posted a loss of ₹6,263.05 crore in Q1. Similarly, HPCL reported a loss of ₹2,172.14 crore in the second quarter, and in April-June quarter it lost ₹10,196.94 crore in Q1. IOC in its result on October 29 reported a net loss of ₹272.35 crore for the Q2.

Exits likely as IPO lock-in ends for Paytm, Nykaa

New-age company stocks have delivered negative return of up to 70% since listings

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FOUR leading listed startups-Nykaa, PB Fintech (Policy Bazaar), One97 Communications (Paytm) and Delhivery - will be under investors' radar as lock-in periods of at least 10 companies are set to expire for pre-IPO investors this month.

The new-age company stocks have delivered a negative return of up to 70% to investors since listings and a further sell-off by pre-IPO investors may bring down share prices even more in the coming sessions, according to market experts.

"It won't be a surprise if we experience another Zomato-like sell-off with these stocks. They continue to incur huge losses and their path to profitability might get delayed due to unfavorable external environments," said a senior analyst at a leading brokerage firm.

Zomato share prices had dipped by over 24% in 4 days when its lock-in period ended in July. Two leading investors in Zomato, Uber Technologies and Tiger Global, sold their stakes when the lock-in period ended. The analyst added that while Paytm, Nykaa and Policybazaar have shown improvement in their business in the September quarter, it still does not justify the valuation they were seeking. "Add to it, some early investors, who were allotted shares at much cheaper prices, would like to cash in. Hence, there is definitely going to be pressure," the analyst said. Sachin Dixit, an analyst at JM Financial, had recently remarked, "As new-age companies such as Nykaa, PB Fintech, Delhivery, and Paytm are expected to see their lock-in expire in November 2022, potential buyers might be spoilt for choice." He added, "There could be a sharp dip in share price even if a small set of investors decide to liquidate their position." Nykaa's, whose share prices have fallen over half of its 52-wek high, expiry date of pre-IPO investors will end on November 10. As per JM Financial, almost 31.9 crore shares are expected to open up for trade on November 10, including about 15.4 crore promoter & promoter group shares. Nykaa board earlier this week approved issuance of bonus shares, new ESOP and the stock unit plan.

Amid correction in virtual currencies, crypto job openings slow down in Oct

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

FROM 1,100 active job openings in Indian crypto start-ups space in October 2021, the number has dropped to just 200 openings in October 2022.

Overall, over 12,500 active job openings are available in the Web3, blockchain, crypto and crypto linked domains in India. However, this is 26% less compared to 17,000 job openings in July 2022, shows a report by staffing firm Xpheno. After an interim rise in talent demand and hiring action, Web3 and crypto jobs have rolled back to nearly the same level in October 2021 -- 12,000 openings. Experts say crypto market is undergoing a critical correction period. Bitcoin has been steadily falling and on Tuesday, it was trading below $19,500. When asked about reduction in job opportunities in crypto space, Alankar Saxena, CTO and co-founder, Mudrex, said this kind of bear market is common across all financial markets.

"The hiring has decreased compared to the hiring cycle observed at the beginning of the year. It is an anticipated and expected drop. There was a flurry of new start-ups hiring for many new roles at the height of the bull run. However, companies focusing on building efficient products have continued to grow their sphere," he added. Bengaluru remains the hotspot for blockchain and crypto jobs as there are 3,000 job openings in the city as against 1,800 in the year-ago period, the report showed. Hyderabad and Chennai too have openings of 1,800 and 1,400, respectively. From only 500 openings in October 2021, Delhi has 1,300 openings as of October 2022. As Web3, crypto and blockchain ventures have a longer horizon for maturity, their investment on specialist talent is in line with their long-term plans, said Anil Ethanur, co-founder, Xpheno. "As the market has cooled down after a hyper-hiring phase, these ventures have slowed down their funnels to be in tune with their funding flows," he added. IT Services & Business Process Management sector remains the largest consumer of blockchain and crypto talent with 64% of the current openings.

As far as package is concerned, average salary for the niche and specialist skills have remained in line with the previous quarter. A blockchain specialist (SME-Developer, Architect) with 2-5 years experience takes home anywhere between ₹13-32 lakh per annum in Tier 1 institutes.

ASIANOMICS

ASIA

STOCKS MIXED AS CAUTION REIGNS

Asian shares held recent gains but lost momentum on Tuesday as investors remained cautious ahead of the release of the US inflation data and mid-term elections, which will determine control of Congress. London and New York are set to open lower with FTSE futures and E-mini futures for the S&P 500 index down 0.55% and 0.18%, respectively, after Wall Street's buoyant Monday close. MSCI's gauge of Asia Pacific stocks outside Japan narrowed gains to rise 0.12%. "The thing to watch ... will be the US midterms today and the CPI data tomorrow," said Redmond Wong, Saxo Markets' market strategist for Greater China, in a note on Tuesday. "Markets are expecting the gridlock situation of a divided Congress and moderation in the US CPI. Both are helping the risk-on sentiments." Investors had recently placed bets on hopes that China would adjust its zero-COVID policy and reopen the economy soon but that rally proved unsustainable. Hong Kong's Hang Seng index and China's benchmark CSI300 Index both dropped 1% in the afternoon sessions, wiping out morning gains.

PHILIPPINES

UNEMPLOYMENT HITS NEW LOW SINCE START OF COVID

The Philippines' unemployment rate in September fell to a new low since the COVID-19 pandemic began, highlighting more green shoots of recovery as the country fully reopens its domestic economy. The unemployment rate eased for a third month in a row to hit 5% in September, the statistics agency said on Tuesday, which bodes well for third quarter growth. "The recent survey results show the gains of the full reopening of our economy," Economic Planning Secretary Arsenio Balisacan said in a statement. The Labor Force Survey done in September showed that the jobless rate in the country had dropped significantly to 5% from 8.9% in the same period last year. It was also down from 5.2% in July and 5.3% in August. This translates to 1.8 million fewer unemployed individuals. It remains largely at par with major Asian economies and is lower compared to that of India, Indonesia, and China, as per the National Economic and Development Authority. GDP was 7.4% in the second quarter, bringing the average growth in the first half of the year to 7.8%, above the government's 6.5-7.5% growth target for 2022.

JAPAN

CABINET OKS EXTRA BUDGET SPENDING, ADDING TO DEBT

Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida's cabinet approved on Tuesday a second extra budget spending of 29.1 trillion yen ($198.54 billion) for an economic stimulus package this fiscal year, much of which will be funded by additional new debt. The latest stimulus spending underscored the struggle Kishida's government faces in achieving economic growth alongside fiscal reform, leaving Japan as an outlier in a global trend towards dialling back crisis-mode stimulus policy. "There's no doubt our response is making the fiscal situation more severe. While exiting exceptional response to coronavirus in a shift towards normalisation, we must conduct responsible economic and fiscal management," Finance Minister Shunichi Suzuki told reporters after the extra budget was approved. "We cannot afford to continue such large fiscal spending. We must also be mindful of risk of national wealth outflow through trade deficit," he said. The Ministry of Finance said an additional 22.8 trillion yen of new debt would be issued to help cover the latest supplementary budget, resulting in total planned new borrowing of 62.5 trillion yen this fiscal year. The extra budget featured steps to help households cope with surging costs of electricity, gas and gasoline. It also aimed to help various regions take advantage of the weak yen to lure tourists.

MRF net slips to ₹124 crore as input costs go up

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

CHENNAI-based tyre manufacturer MRF's net profit fell to ₹124 crore in the quarter ending September 2022 (Q2FY23) due to increase in rubber and other inputs cost.

As per the company's financials released on Tuesday, the revenue from operations stood at ₹5,719 crore in Q2FY23, as compared to ₹4,831 crore in the corresponding period last year, an increase of 18.38% year-on-year (YoY).

However, expenses shot up 25.9% from ₹4,471 crore in Q2FY22 to 5,630 crore in the same quarter last year.

The cost of materials consumed was at ₹4,113 crore in the quarter, as against ₹3,804 crore in Q2FY22. Profit before tax stood at ₹165 crore in the second quarter of the current financial year and ₹316.88 crore for the first half of the current financial year. The board of directors of MRF has approved the payment of interim dividend of ₹3 per share to shareholders on November 18.

Zoho surpasses $1 bn in annual revenue, India leads co's growth

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

TECH firm Zoho has crossed $1 billion in annual revenue, with India leading the growth. India's annual revenue increased by 77% in 2021.

"While growth has slowed down quite a bit in 2022 over 2021, our diversified product portfolio and the fact that we save money for customers has helped us so far," said Sridhar Vembu, CEO and Co-founder, Zoho Corp. on the sidelines of Zoholics India, the company's annual user conference on Tuesday.

"Unfortunately, recent developments in our industry amidst a backdrop of rapidly deteriorating global economic outlook, are a rude reminder of our own limits as technologists," he added. The Chennai-headquartered company also announced its plans to open 100 network PoPs (point of presence) across countries in the next five years for providing users with a faster network. It also announced doubling investment for technologies such as blockchain and artificial intelligence.

Zoho, which spends three times its marketing spend on R&D, attributes its growth to strong R&D capabilities across categories and markets, its diversified portfolio, and to businesses choosing unified offerings over single products. "Our R&D focus in the coming years is to further unify our technology stack so that we are able to elevate the user experience," said Vembu. It is seeing uptake of products across different categories, with the top offerings in India including Zoho One, CRM Plus and the finance suite led by Zoho Books.

The company is also working on adding Indian language support for its AI and blockchain technology for universal validation. Zoho runs its own data centres. At present there are 12, including two in India. It has around 14 network PoPs that run its proprietary software. Zoho, which is profitable with more than 11,000 employees, also has over 150 monitoring PoPs that enable users to monitor functioning of their websites.

Three-member panel to probe Gunathilaka incident

A three-member panel will probe the alleged sexual assault by Sri Lankan batter Danushka Gunathilaka during the T20 World Cup in Australia, the country's cricket board said on Tuesday. The probe panel will also investigate various other alleged incidents involving the reigning Asia Cup winners during their stay in Australia, Sri Lanka Cricket stated.

India look for English answers

With a day to go, Rohit & Co hope to find the right answer for a couple of questions that could decide the contest

GOMESH S @ Chennai

WHEN the T20 World Cup began, there weren't many who predicted India as outright favourites to reach the semifinals. They were missing their premier fast bowler in Jasprit Bumrah and they had tough challenges in both Pakistan and South Africa. Two weeks in, they have topped their group, losing just one game in the Super 12 stages.

However, their road to the semifinals hasn't been a cakewalk. They needed a Virat Kohli miracle against Pakistan. They lost to South Africa. While they won the other games, India have relied heavily on Kohli and Suryakumar Yadav. The pace trio of Arshdeep Singh, Mohammed Shami and Bhuvneshwar Kumar have stepped up and delivered, and R Ashwin has chipped in as well.

That said, unlike the other teams India have faced so far, Jos Buttler's side has the most modernised approach when it comes to white-ball cricket. New Zealand might have been the thorn in India's pursuit of an ICC trophy but England are very strong adversaries. India would be wary that they haven't been able to replicate a similar brand of cricket in the World Cup so far. Which is why, as Rohit Sharma and Co. get ready for the second semifinal in Adelaide on Thursday, they will be aware of the threat Buttler's side possess. And there are quite a few questions they would want to address before the all-important clash.

The first on the list would be the fact that India's top-order hasn't been able to set the tone. In the first six overs, they have operated at 5.96 runs while averaging 22. Former India cricketer Hemang Badani said that it would be the biggest challenge. "England are not a team that take time to settle in. They (Indian openers) will have to step up and go aggressively. Against England, they can't score slowly and capitalise (later on). They will have to fire for India to do well," Badani told this daily.

For him, the difference between the approach by the openers would be the deciding factor. "Opening versus opening is crucial. That will be the deciding contest. Indian openers will have to be more aggressive and they will have to dismiss the England openers early. If you look at the stats, they haven't lost many wickets in the powerplay. Still, they go at a good SR that is where the game will matter," said Badani, who has won three TNPL titles as coach of Chepauk Super Gillies.

The India pacers have done extremely well in that regard, with Bhuvneshwar operating at an economy of 5.4. He might have only two new ball wickets to show, but 51 off the 66 balls he has bowled in the powerplay have been dots. However, the challenge lies in the approach of England. They have lost only four wickets in the powerplay, three of which came against Ireland, and have managed to score at 7.3 runs per over in the first eight overs.

In comparison, the Indian top three score just over run-a-ball — Kohli (106.3), Rohit (96.96) and KL Rahul (103.57).

"It will be important for India's top three to take it upon themselves to either bat deep or bat a little more aggressively in the first 6-8 overs because they are batting close to only a 100 SR. They will have to make sure that they take deep or they bat aggressively," he said.

The other question before them is whether or not to bring back Dinesh Karthik in place of Rishabh Pant. Since England have four left-handers, Axar Patel's place needs to be assessed. Badani felt that dropping Pant after just one match might not be of any help and that Deepak Hooda might not have a place in the packed middle-order. "They have Adil Rashid. Yes, Axar is there, but he is going to be No 7, 8. They have to use Pant strategically, like bring him in when Rashid comes on. Rashid has to bowl his four overs. That is when they should send in Pant to take him on. Not to mention, Adelaide has shot square boundaries. They have to make the most of it."

Badani also felt that despite the two half-centuries, Rahul might have to come to the fore. "He hasn't done well against tougher opponents like Pakistan and South Africa. England is a big team, and I want him to step up. He has the skillset, he has the talent, but he has to convert into runs." India will be hoping to find the right answers.

Injury scare for Rohit

The Indian team survived a scare ahead of the semifinal as skipper Rohit Sharma sustained a powerful blow on his forearm during training on Tuesday, but it did not turn out to be a serious injury. After applying ice pack on the injured arm and resting for a while, he resumed his training.

PAKISTAN STAND BETWEEN KIWIS & 4TH STRAIGHT FINAL

NEW ZEALAND HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY TO ADVANCE TO A FOURTH STRAIGHT ICC FINAL BUT PAKISTAN IS A SUBSTANTIAL HURDLE. A LOOK AT THE FIRST SEMIFINAL IN SYDNEY ON WEDNESDAY...

ALLEN VS PAK BOWLERS

Finn Allen prefers to exploit the field restrictions in the powerplay. He has already gone big once at this venue in the group stage (Aus). If he can repeat those fireworks, the Kiwis will quietly believe. If the Pakistan bowlers remove him and get Kane Williamson into the match early, they can put the brakes on the scoring.

NZ BOWLING

The reason behind the Kiwis' success in this event is their simple approach, especially the bowlers. They share wickets, maintain tight lines, swing the ball early & use two spinners in the middle overs. They have only used 5 bowlers, nobody has gone above 8.13 RPO. With Pakistan batters likely to keep the powder dry for the latter stages, the Kiwi bowlers are ideally placed to strangulate them further.

SANTNER THREAT

The southpaw has Rashid Khan-like numbers, it speaks for how effective he has been. Sixteen overs, 43 dots & 8 wickets. That he has conceded only 3 sixes & 10 boundaries is a testament to his accuracy. Pakistan could target him but in a venue that has historically favoured spin, it's fraught with danger. What the likes of Shadab Khan does against him could decide that phase of the contest.

RAUF VS PHILIPS

One of the main reasons why NZ are here is due to the firefighting capacities of Glenn Phillips. The onus is on him to come in and up the runs/over (RPO) in the backend and he does that. Average of 48.7 while striking at 164, those are Suryakumar Yadav's like numbers. On Wednesday, he will be in the phase when Haris Rauf will operate. Order popcorn and tune in because it will be one to savour.

No voting rights for state units, a sticky point in IOA's SGM

FLIPSIDE

INDRANEEL DAS

THE Special General Meeting (SGM) of the Indian Olympic Association (IOA) on November 10 will be the last before the amended constitution is adopted. The primary agenda of the meeting is "adoption and mandatory approval of the Amended Constitution of the IOA". The Supreme Court-appointed one-man committee, retired judge L Nageswara Rao, has brought in necessary changes to the constitution and had submitted to the court on November 3. Though the SC has directed the constitution to be tabled before the IOA general house during the Special General Assembly, it needs to be seen how the members react. If the new constitution kicks in, most of the senior members are out. Yet, there seems to be no clarity among members on how they can oppose certain clauses in the constitution.

The main objection is the doing away of voting rights of the State Olympic Associations. However, according to some members, they will be part of the SGM this time and can vote on Thursday. The members are also taking legal opinion whether it is possible to object or whether it would lead to contempt since it has been approved by the SC. The SGM will be attended by almost all members of NSFs (three can attend) and SOAs (two members). The IOA is already a divided house. One is led by secretary general, Rajeev Mehta, while the other is being led by its vice president, Adille Sumariwalla, after former IOA chief Narinder Batra quit. Both factions are not talking but there were indications that they want a secret ballot to vote for the constitution. Rejecting it will be a humongous task too. It will need two-third majority and garnering those numbers will be crucial.

Not giving voting rights to state associations has created a stir. They will no longer be part of the decision-making process of the IOA. Their existence could be under threat. Earlier, they argued that since sports is a state subject, they are not obliged to follow the constitution of the IOA. But IOA constitution always made it mandatory for them to follow. There are arguments both for and against. Some say they are a necessary arm of a democratic set up. They get involved during National Games. However, the way the National Games in Gujarat was held, their role was negligible.

Prez name undecided

Though many names are doing the rounds, with just about a month to go for the election, there is no consensus on the presidential candidate. Since the secretary general's post has been converted to a paid one (either secretary general or Chief Executive Officer), the appointed person will take charge after the election. There are quite a few names doing the rounds. For some senior members, Sumariwalla, also an Olympian, is an ideal candidate since he still has one more tenure of four years left, as per the amended constitution. There are other names floating around too. Former badminton chief national coach, P Gopichand, who seems to tick all the boxes, is one such name. It is understood that some prominent players and administrators are expected to support. He is attending the SGM on Thursday as vice president of Badminton Association of India. Other prominent athletes' names that cropped up are former Olympic and world championships medallists.

However, going by All India Football Federation (AIFF) and Indian Cricket Board (BCCI) elections, members feel IOA president's name too could be backed by the government. The last date for sending names for the electoral college is November 20 and it will be finalised on November 21.

Sneha guides South Zone to win

ENS @ Chennai

SKIPPER Sneha Deepthi led from the front with a swashbuckling 30-ball 54 as South Zone started their campaign in the Senior Women Interzonal T20 tournament with a comfortable three-wicket win against North Zone at the Atal Bihari Vajpayee Ekana Cricket stadium in Lucknow on Tuesday. In the other two games, West Zone and Central Zone trumped, East and North East Zones, respectively.

Opting to field first, South Zone struck early thanks to Niranjana Nagarajan who removed Priya Punia for 14 runs from 18 balls. Amanjot Kaur helped them revive with a 56-ball 66, taking North Zone to 131/5 in 20 overs. Shikha Pandey took 2/18 while Kerala's Minnu Mani squeezed in her four overs for just 19 runs.

Brief scores: North Zone 131/5 in 20 ovs (Amanjot 66; Shikha 2/18) lost to South Zone 132/7 in 17.2 ovs (Sneha 54; Harleen 4/21); Central Zone 149/5 in 20 ovs (Nuzhat 57) bt North East Zone 51 all out in 18.1 ovs; East Zone 97/3 in 20 ovs lost to (Madhuri 37; Devika 2/20) to West Zone 100/5 in 19.4 ovs (Tarannum 40; Priyadarshini 2/15).

In reply, A Akshaya got out early but Sneha came out all guns blazing, hitting a boundary at least every three balls on average as she reached her half-century in just 27 balls. South Zone, however, slumped from 52/1 to 62/4 as the batters at the other end got out one after the other. In Shikha, she found a partner and the duo took the team to 85 before Sneha got out. Shikha (34 n.o), however, took them closer with Shreyanka Patil (12 off 10) and remained not out till the end as South Zone got across the line in 17.2 overs. North Zone captain Harleen Deol took four wickets for 21 runs.

The last time women took part in an interzonal event was in 2017-18, when the tournament was played in three-day format. South Zone finished second then, with North Zone winning the tournament played in the round-robin format.

Garcia downs Sabalenka to seal WTA Finals victory

AFP @ Fort Worth (USA)

FRANCE'S Caroline Garcia scored the biggest victory of her career with a straight-sets defeat of Aryna Sabalenka to win the season-ending WTA Finals. Garcia relied on a superb service game to overpower her Belarusian opponent 7-6, (7/4), 6-4 at Fort Worth, Texas. The 29-year-old from Lyon is only the second French player to win the WTA title after Amelie Mauresmo in 2005.

"It's definitely a lot of giant happiness," Garcia said after a win that will see her pocket $1.57 million in prize money and 1,375 rankings points.

"A crazy final, a lot of intensity on every point. Just really proud of the work we did throughout the year. It was a great match -- I really went for it. I'm really happy to win my biggest title."

Giving World Cup to Qatar was a bad choice: former FIFA chief Blatter

AP @ Geneva

PICKING Qatar to host the World Cup was a mistake 12 years ago, FIFA's president at the time Sepp Blatter said on Tuesday, again citing a meeting between Nicolas Sarkozy and Michel Platini for swaying key votes.

The 86-year-old Blatter spoke with the Swiss newspaper group Tamedia in his first major interview since being acquitted with Platini in July of financial misconduct at FIFA after a trial at federal criminal court. "It's a country that's too small," Blatter said of Qatar, the smallest host by size since the 1954 tournament in Switzerland. "Football and the World Cup are too big for that."

The 32 teams will play 64 games in eight stadiums in and around the city of Doha which has been transformed since 2010 by massive construction projects to prepare for the World Cup.

Games start on November 20 with about 1.2 million international visitors expected to arrive in Qatar during the World Cup. With limited places to stay in the host nation, some will commute in from neighbouring countries.

"It was a bad choice. And I was responsible for that as president at the time," said Blatter, who has long said he voted for the United States. Its bid was beaten by Qatar in the final round of a five-candidate contest to be 2022 host.

It became part of FIFA lore that an expected US victory swung toward Qatar at a meeting Sarkozy hosted in Paris in the week before the December 2, 2010 vote by FIFA's executive committee.

French great Platini, then president of European body UEFA and a vice president of FIFA, was invited by then-state president Sarkozy to his official residence. The crown prince of Qatar, now the Emir, Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani, was also there.

Blatter on Tuesday repeated his claim that Sarkozy put pressure on Platini, and again gave his version of a telephone call Platini made to him after the Paris meeting that the World Cup voting plan had changed.

"Thanks to the four votes of Platini and his (UEFA) team, the World Cup went to Qatar rather than the United States. It's the truth," Blatter said of the 14-8 voting result.

In comments to the Associated Press in 2015, Platini broadly confirmed the significance of that meeting in Paris.

"Sarkozy never asked me to vote for Qatar, but I knew what would be good," Platini told an AP reporter in Zurich seven years ago. He acknowledged that he "might have told" American officials that he would be voting for their 2022 bid.

Blatter did not specifically refer to criticism of Qatar on labour and human rights issues since 2010.

However, he did question why his successor as FIFA president, Gianni Infantino, has moved to live in Qatar for at least the past year.

Blatter noted growing calls, by rights groups and several FIFA member federations including the US and England, to create a compensation fund for families of workers who died or were injured. Qatar's government has resisted the calls and described them as a "publicity stunt."

"What can FIFA say if its president is in the same boat as Qatar?" Blatter said of Infantino choosing to live in Doha.

FIFA did not immediately respond to a request for comment on the interview.

Venus Express

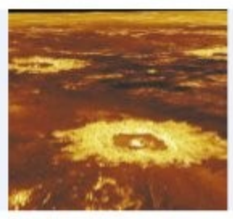
Venus Express arrived at its destination on April 11, 2006, after jetting 250 million miles

CHALLENGES

Venus presents a challenging environment for a landing spacecraft. With the surface of the planet being 465 degrees C, most spacecrafts that made it there melted within minutes

DISCOVERIES

Venus Express observed little water and a large ratio of deuterium to hydrogen. This can be explained by the presence of oceans early in the planet's history



TWILIGHT

By Dec 2014, controllers said the mission was over and that the spacecraft would likely break up naturally in the atmosphere in January 2015

On the 68th birth anniversary of famed actor Shankar Nag, close friend and fellow actor Ramesh Bhat remembers Nag and what made their friendship tick

A LEGEND LIVES ON

Shankar Nag and Ramesh Bhat in Nodi Swamy Navirodu Heege

Shankar Nag used to finish lunch in less than 10 minutes to get back to work. In his spare time from shooting, he would discuss what he would do 20 or 30 years down the line

Ramesh Bhat, close friend and co-star

MONIKA MONALISA

WHEN Shankar Nag's co-star and close friend Ramesh Bhat is asked to describe Nag in a single word, he pauses for a moment. "I have two. And they would be workaholic and passionate."

On Shankar Nag's 68th birth anniversary, Bhat, who worked with him in multiple movies like Minchina Ota, Geetha, including the classic series Malgudi Days, recalls their friendship of 13 years. "We were friends from 1977-1978, when I first met him when he came to Bengaluru to join theatre. It was my privilege that we remained friends throughout, until his last day," says Bhat.

Having been part of many milestones in Nag's life, Bhat reveals that Nag hardly liked celebrating his birthday. "No birthday celebrations or anniversary celebrations...his only focus was work and he loved it. He used to finish lunch in less than 10 minutes to get back to work. Whatever spare time he had from shooting, he would discuss what he would do 20 or 30 years down the line," says Bhat, adding that Nag was a visionary of his times.

Being part of many Nag-starrer movies and even theatre projects, Bhat preferred his work more as a director. "He was an excellent storyteller and knew which part of the story should be given importance. He was equally good in both mass and class movies. For example, Auto Raja was a completely mass movie and to this day, hundreds of autos still have Shankar Nag's image," says Bhat, adding that it has been 32 years since he passed away but his memories still linger. "As an actor, all his movies were fresh and are relevant to this day," says the 76-year-old actor.

Among other qualities of Nag, Bhat says he was a voracious reader. "In those days we would have only Sundays off and he would work till Saturday midnight. Despite his work schedule, he would manage to finish an 800-page book in three days," says Bhat.

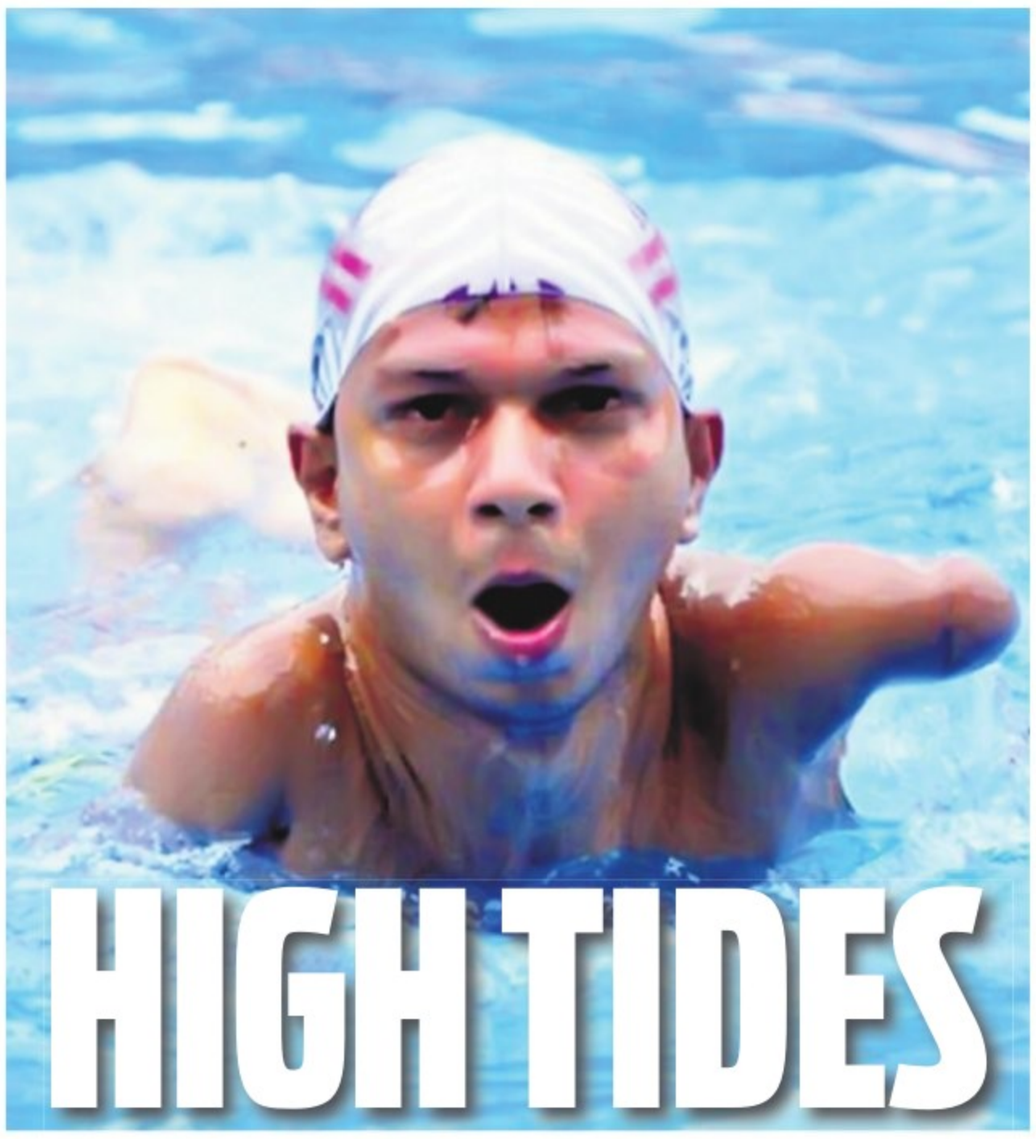
AUTHOR VR FEROSE TALKS ABOUT HIS NEW BOOK, GRIT: THE VISHWAS STORY, THE WRITING PROCESS AND WHY HE OPTED FOR A GRAPHIC NOVEL FORMAT

TUNIR BISWAS



VISHWAS KS is a swimmer of great merit. He has won numerous medals, participated in coveted international tournaments, and has been the international champion. The Vice President of India gave him the Role Model award. The Karnataka government bestowed him the Rajyotsava award. In all his achievements, there is but one catch: Vishwas has no hands.

The story of overcoming great ordeals has been present in many fables. We've all heard the stories: from the meek spider who inspired a king to persevere to the steady tortoise who bested the swift rabbit in a race. Despite all this, the story continues to stay relevant. Maybe because we find remnants of the tale in people's lives. The form might be different, but the message remains the same. Perhaps that's one of the reasons behind author VR Ferose's GRIT, his series of graphic novels.

The second part of the intended trilogy, GRIT: The Vishwas Story, explores the idea of relentless effort in the face of great adversities, which is the core theme of the series. "I am not interested in telling the story of people who came first, second, or third. I want to invite the guy who came fourth. For me, that is a much more interesting story than that of a gold medallist. How that guy deals with the disappointment is much more fascinating to me. Because that is a very human emotion that all of us feel," shares Ferose. Actor Ramesh Aravind is also a part of the book.

Before the first book in the series had come out, Ferose decided to create it in the form of graphic novels. "I had read some graphic novels here and there in India, but I truly realised the power of this medium once I saw how big it is in the US. There you will find huge bookstores that only have graphic novels. I was also writing this series for both adults and children, and graphic novels have an audience that cuts across generations," he says.

The protagonist of each book in the GRIT series has been a specially-abled person. Ferose, himself, has been part of the inclusion movement for many years. In a way, just like his protagonists, his grit revolves around the acceptance of specially-abled people in society. "While I have been part of the inclusion movement and I run the inclusion summit as well, that is not why the protagonists of the series are specially-abled. Filmmaker Nagesh Kukunoor, who directed Iqbal (2005), once told me 'Don't focus on the cause, focus on the story'. That is exactly what I'm doing as well. While the cause is vital, I'm just trying to tell a compelling story," he says.

> I am not interested in telling the story of people who came first. I want to invite the guy who came fourth. How that guy deals with the disappointment is much more fascinating to me.

While some writers might prefer to lead a lonely life, that can't be the case when one is writing a graphic novel. You need to work with an illustrator. Cooperation is key. The illustrator for this novel is Sriram Jagannathan. "When you're writing a graphic novel, the process is different. However, the work with this book came easier as Jagannathan and I have already worked on the previous one, and we'll be working on one more at least. He has been part of the inclusion movement for the last five years and understands the space very well," says Ferose, adding that Jagannathan's style of illustration, which is very sober on the eyes, helps capture the mood of the story as well.

Indian companies Musk should buy

HRIDAY RANJAN
Urban Bourbon
(Writer, comedian)

THE last week was particularly bad for American celebrities. Kanye West became a millionaire this week (he was a billionaire earlier!) for his anti-semitic remarks. But Elon Musk's metamorphic transformation from hero to villain was a bit of a shock. For years, Musk enjoyed the reputation of a real-life Iron-Man – someone who takes on his competitors with sheer brains and willpower. Like Iron Man, he comes from a line of rich millionaires – his parents were accomplished businessmen in apartheid South Africa. Every social media platform had hundreds of pages dedicated to how smart and cool Elon Musk was. But alas, how the mighty fall!

In the space of one week, Elon Musk went from one of the most respected billionaires, to someone who has all the business acumen of Anil Ambani. It was shocking that Musk would want to buy Twitter. Twitter is a platform that rewards you for being a troll. A platform where even the most benign message can turn you into an anti-national, a rice-bag convert, or a privileged bigot. If social media is the hub of toxicity, Twitter is 'samudra-manthan', where it all originates. Twitter is the last place you'd expect someone like Elon Musk to hang out at, leave alone try to buy the platform. But I can understand Musk's confidence. Once you've taken on the American car conglomerates, nothing must seem out of reach.

But if taking over companies and turning them around is what Elon Musk is going for, I have a few suggestions of my own. There are a number of companies in India that could benefit from some overhauling. Firstly, thanks to last week's horrific experience (kindly refer to last week's 'Urban Bourbon' column for the ghastly details), I wish Elon Musk took over the travel agencies that operate intercity buses. Kindly take over these companies and completely ban semi-sleeper buses. Convert them to sleeper buses and add toilets to every intercity bus.

If buying a company and completely burning it to the ground is what Mr Musk is going for, may I kindly recommend he take over India's many gutkha companies. Gutkha is not only insanely dangerous to consumers, it is also instrumental in people painting the town red when nobody asked them to. Travel through North India, and you'll find the red splotches of death across buildings and roads. If Musk takes over Indian gutkha companies, at least we won't have any more 'Manikchand Pan Parag Filmfare Awards'. Today, every popular Bollywood actor endorses some or the other form of gutkha or paan masala. It will be fun to watch them all disappear into thin air.

If Musk is interested in any more Indian companies, may I also recommend he take over Bollywood film production houses. While the world has moved on to electric vehicles and attempts to send humanity to Mars, Bollywood films are trudging along like bullock carts. Every month, a new South Indian film takes the nation by storm, while Bollywood films are still peddling stories about urban romance that is watched by mosquitoes in empty halls. If Musk wants to change lives, he could begin by changing the lives of millions of audiences around the country every Friday.

Or Musk could try driving one of his Teslas on Indian roads, to see roads filled with potholes that would put Mars and the moon to shame. Or perhaps dabble with mosquito repellents, an industry that has unlimited potential in India. In fact, as a growing economy, India is rife with opportunities for Musk to take over.

BONO'S MEMOIR TOUCHES UPON HIS LOVE STORY WITH WIFE ALI HEWSON

Irish singer-songwriter and the frontman of the rock band 'U2', Paul David Hewson popularly known as 'Bono', published his memoir recently. The book, titled Surrender: 40 Songs, One Story, doesn't just tell the story of 40 songs of the band but also touches upon his love story with his wife Ali Hewson. Bono, who married Ali in 1982 and counts her as one of his closest friends, said: "I also wrote the book to explain to my family what I was doing with their life because it was they who permissioned me to be away with U2 or lobbying Congress." For him, the book is not just a memoir but beyond that, "Ali gave me the chance and covered for me at home. So I'm not writing a rock'n'roll memoir, (or) an activist's memoir, I'm not just writing a sojourner's memoir, I'm trying to write a love letter to my wife". Bono calls the woman he shares four children with, "incredible." However, not that it's all been a bed of roses. According to Bono, the couple has weathered some tough times. "It's not like our love was absent of any dark undercurrents or briny water, [but] we got each other through those bits where it was hard to see where we were," he said. — IANS

Vedha's first teaser to highlight weapons

Shivarajkumar's 125th film, directed by Harsha, to release around Christmas

Shivarajkumar

CE FEATURES

VEDHA is slated for a December 23 release, and the makers of Shivarajkumar's 125th film are coming up with the first teaser on November 11. The tagline of the first teaser read, "Weapons of Vedha will come to life."

Director Harsha has planned a unique way of promoting this film, and says that the first glimpse from Vedha will highlight different kinds of weapons used in the film.

Vedha will be the fourth collaboration between Harsha and Shivarajkumar after Vajrakaya, Bhajarangi, and Bhajarangi 2, and has the Century Star playing the titular role in the action fantasy drama.

Vedha, which has a tagline The Brutal 1960's, is a rural period drama, and will be out in Kannada, Telugu, and Tamil.

With music by Arjun Janya, Vedha has cinematography by Swamy J.

Meanwhile, the first single from Vedha is to be out on November 27 at a grand launch event likely to be held in Mysuru.

Another interesting piece of news is that the director and music composer has been discussing with a big star to render his voice for a song, details of which the team plans to reveal once the actor completes recording the track. "We have a lot of surprises in store from team Vedha," says the director.

Vedha, produced by Geetha Pictures in collaboration with Zee Studios, has Ganavi Lakshman playing the female lead, and also features Shwetha Chengappa and Aditi Sagar in important roles.

Shreyas Manju is a wholesome package, says Nanda Kishore

The director talks about his upcoming film Raana, the importance of sticking to the basics in direction and more

Nanda Kishore

CE FEATURES

NANDA Kishore is one of those few directors who has balanced between directing big stars and upcoming talents. The director, who made his debut with Adhyaksha starring Sharan, collaborated with Sudeep in Ranna, Upendra in Mukunda Murari, Dhruva Sarja in Pogaru, Pradeep Bagodia in Tiger, Manuranjan Ravichandran in Bruhaspathi.

His latest will be Raana and it will star Shreyas Manju in the lead. The director differentiates working with stars and newcomers. "It is very easy to handle a star because you can fit them into the character, but the difficulty lies in making the audience feel connected to the role. In the case of newcomers, it gets difficult to fit them into unique roles, but it is very easy to convince the audience. This is something I've gauged over the years," says Nanda, who also explains that today's audience is intelligent, but that doesn't mean the director should sweat it out to make their work feel intellectual. "As a director, we should stick to the basics of entertainment, and just keep it realistic," he says.

Coming to Raana, Nanda Kishore reveals that story is not penned by him, and he has gone ahead with a script chosen by producer K Manju and has his son and lead Shreyas Manju. "Raana is a simple story about a youth who has unpredictable goals. How he goes about to reach them is the one line," he says.

Nanda Kishore asserts that Shreyas Manju is an actor, who has a lot of potential and puts in a lot of effort. "Shreyas Manju is a wholesome package. He is an actor with a good personality, a good dancer, is good with stunts, and has the looks. He is also dedicated, and aspiring."

The film presented by K Manju, and produced by Gujjal Purushotham stars Reeshma Nanaiah as the female lead and has Rajini Bharadwaj, Raghu, and Mohan Dhanraj playing prominent characters.

Raana will have music by Chandan Shetty and cinematography by Shekhar Chandra.

I INSIST ON CHOOSING FEEL-GOOD FILMS: KRISHNA

A SHARADHAA

THROUGHOUT his career, actor Krishna's go-to genres have been romance and family entertainers, and the actor admits that it was a completely conscious decision. "Today, most films in every language or even OTT content are mostly action-packed flicks and thrillers. However, I insist on going with feel-good films, specifically family-oriented scripts. This struck my mind after my debut directorial, Love Mocktail. I felt it is the simple stories and relatable characters that ensure people connect with the film. Thankfully, I have a handful of directors, who come to me with good romantic and family stories. One such film is Dilpasand," says Krishna.

Dilpasand, which is set to release this week, is billed as a fun entertainer that is heavy on emotions. Krishna plays the character of Santhu, an introvert, who doesn't express a lot and feels inferior about himself. "I play a person, who has grown up in a strict atmosphere, and a particular situation diverts his lifestyle. The way society reacts to this behaviour is what transpires in Dilpasand."

The actor is specific about picking up family entertainers with elements of romance

A still from Dilpasand

Krishna

Krishna also points out that his films usually don't have a villain, "Villains are usually seen in a face-off with the hero. There is bloodshed, and crimes, which have been the template arc of an antagonist. However, in my films, each character has both negatives and positives in them, and it is the situations that make one a hero or a villain. In general, I don't like too many filmy stereotypes in my projects. I want films that either entertain me or make me emotional, and that has always been the case with my films. Apart from Bachelor, which is little on the commercial side, my other flicks including Sugar Factory, Love Birds, Love Me or Hate Me, and Kaushalya Supraja Rama are mostly romantic and family-oriented scripts. if you observe, my films mostly deal with husband and wife relationships. I think it will always have an influence on the audience," says Krishna, adding, that stories from his married friends also help him to relate to such films.

Also starring Megha Shetty and Nishvika Naidu, Dilpasand will be Krishna's first collaboration with director Shiva Tejas.

'WAKANDA FOREVER WILL HONOUR CHADWICK BOSEMAN'S LEGACY, BUT ALSO MOVE FORWARD'

SHILAJIT MITRA

MARVEL producer Nate Moore looks back at the passing of Chadwick Boseman as a "tragic loss for me, both professionally and personally". Chadwick, globally-acclaimed star of films like 42 and Get on Up, as well as King T'Challa in the MCU, died of colon cancer two years ago. His untimely demise put a spanner in the works of a Black Panther sequel. Nate, for instance, knew for certain they couldn't recast T'Challa. He also knew that a film that does not emotionally acknowledge and honour Chadwick's legacy would gravely shortchange millions of grieving fans.

"Figuring out how to make a film that both honours him but also moves forward and shows people that there's possibility beyond the tragedy was something we never had to face as a company," Nate says in an interview with Cinema Express. The first step – as with dealing with any tragedy – was putting the old team together. Director Ryan Coogler returned, as did Letitia Wright (Shuri), Lupita Nyong'o (Nakia), Danai Gurira (Okoye), Winston Duke (M'Baku), Martin Freeman and others. They were going back to Wakanda, a bereft, vulnerable, T'Challa-less Wakanda, beset by hostilities and an advancing subaqueous enemy in the form of Namor (Tenoch Heurta).

"We were all processing this feeling of grief and loss," adds Ryan, seated among his cast members in LA. We meet them over Zoom, and the show of strength—steered, in case it needs pointing out, by the women of Wakanda, one of the largest female-led superhero ensembles ever—is awe-inspiring. "It's great when you don't have to do it alone, you know? We were able to build that sense of community and also welcome new members, like Namor and his underwater kingdom of the Talokanil."

Warrior women

Talking of new members, Michaela Coel is in the cast. The actor and creator of the universally celebrated British shows Chewing Gum and I May Destroy You appears in Black Panther: Wakanda Forever as Aneka, a brand-new character described in the comic books as a combat instructor for the Dora Milaje, Wakanda's elite all-female special force. Aneka and Ayo (played by Florence Kasumba) share a romantic track in the film.

"Michaela Coel was an unexpected addition because we felt there's no way she would want to be in this movie," laughs Nate. "But she loved the world of Wakanda and her spirit is just infectious. So we found a way to integrate her into the film."

Danai Gurira, who plays Okoye, fierce warrior and general of the Dora Milaje, talks enthusiastically about Wakanda's action design. After four movies—Okoye also appeared in Avengers: Infinity War and Avengers: Endgame—the American-Zimbabwean actor has gotten scarily efficient with her battle spear. She tells Cinema Express, "I'm still some way from mastering it but there are aspects to it that do come more naturally now. I love the weapon. It links our characters to their African heritage and their foremothers. I learned new things about it on Wakanda Forever. And yeah, it does help slice away spider webs at home!"

The Panther-in-waiting

Letitia Wright's role as T'Challa's tech-savvy sister was expanded to bolster the sequel. As princess Shuri, she is everyone's guess as the next Black Panther, donning a new suit and clawing down as the protector of Wakanda. But not before she's had a chance to work through the anger and grief of her brother's death. "When we meet Shuri in the first film, she is this ray of sunshine," Letitia says. "She's so clothed and protected in royalty and love. Her family encouraged her to be a genius and be wonderfully made. So, we follow from that. What does that look like, when your heart is broken?"

Nate, catching the maudlin drift of these interviews, assures the new film is not all doom and gloom. We can tell — not least from the soundtrack (Rihanna, Stormzy, DBN Gogo), snatches of score (Oscar-winner Ludwig Göransson) and those epically cool shots of Ironheart (Dominique Throne).

"What these Wakandans are experiencing is not just grief," Nate says. "It's also sometimes joy, sometimes humour. It's all those complex emotions that emerge in the wake of a profound loss."
